WILL TURN LIGHT ON ARMY AND NAVY

Roosevelt to Name Commission to Investigate Graft in Uncle Sam's Military Establishment.

WASTE AND NO SYSTEM.

Red Tape Galore and Bureaucratic Methods Declared to Handicap Business of Both Departments.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Having used the probe with some success in the civilian departments, President Roosevelt has now decided to apply it to the army and navy.

It was learned today that a new commission of investigation will be named by the president. It will consist of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling and Assistant Secretary of War Oliver. These officials will do for the military branch of the government what the Keep commission is doing for the civilian branch. They will ferret out any corruption that may exist and institute reforms of administration in order to do away with the excessive amount of red tape which now hampers the prompt and economical execution of business.

The new commission will have as onerous a task as that which the commission headed by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Keep has had to deal with. Those who know about the methods prevailing in the army and navy are aware that waste and extravagance exist to an extent that seems almost incredible. The naval estimates for the present year now being collected by the secretary of the navy aggregate almost $130,000,000, and through the application of the pruning knife will be reduced to $100,000,000. If more economical methods were observed than are in force today it is the belief of competent judges that expenditures for maintenance of the navy could be reduced to $75,000,000 or $80,000,000 at least.

Same Conditions in Army.

What is true of the navy is true of the army. The general staff of the army has not brought about economy in administration, whatever else may be claimed for it, and the bureaus of the war department continue to make expenditures which would not be necessary under a régime of strict economy.

The trouble with the navy department, and only to a slightly less extent the war department, arises out of the distribution of authority among a number of bureaus. The country is not so much concerned about the controversies which are a constant development among the bureaus as over the fact that work is delayed and therefore becomes more expensive; that there is duplication, triplication, and quadruplication of separate plants within the navy yard, the effort of each department being to obtain complete independence of the others.

In one navy yard, for example, there are eight machine shops, five joiners' shops, five paint shops, four pattern shops, four tin-shops, four fuel oil plants, four testing laboratories, three electrical work shops, three copper shops, thirty-two storehouses under separate roofs, thirteen coal sheds and bins under separate roofs, and fifty piles of materials not under cover.

Lack of System Evident.

Recently the power plants, of which there were six at the yard referred to, were consolidated, resulting in considerable economy. Apparently no step has been taken to consolidate other shops. If these various plants were consolidated there would be a large reduction in the force of employés and other economies. As the shops and portions of departments are duplicated it is a natural consequence that the heads of deupartments and departments themselves are duplicated.

No system whatever is observed in the matter of laying out the navy yards. The Portsmouth yard, for example, was valuable strategically during the life of the old navy. There is little need for it so far as the new navy is concerned. Yet the government continues to expend hundreds of thousands of dollars for its improvement. Recently an obstruction to navigation known as Henderson's point was blown up at an expense of $150,000; a dry dock which has cost about $1,000,000 has been constructed, and new buildings which have been quite costly have been erected. The navy department knows and frankly states that this yard will never have any value commensurate with the amount of money spent upon it.

Hopeful of Searching Inquiry.

Assistant Secretaries Darling and Oliver have not received their instructions as to the scope of the investigation they will make, but there is such an immense field for reform that broad minded army and navy officers are hopeful the president will direct a most exhaustive inquiry with a view to the practical reorganization of the industrial administration of the two services.

The public has not forgotten the excessive cost of the battleships Maine and Texas, and the cruisers Cincinnati and Raleigh, which were built in navy yards, and an honest report of the expenditures made in connection with the battleship Louisiana, which is building at the New York navy yard, will show the absolute impossibility of an economical construction by government methods. The government builds small boats and makes furniture for ships and other articles of naval equipage, and the cost warrants the charge of wasteful extravagance.

There is red tape galore in the war and navy departments. One department confers with another by letter and gets a reply not immediately, but the next day or the day after. There are quicker mail deliveries in a city. Business letters to one department are referred one at a time to others for indorsement. It takes from four to ten days for the letter to make the rounds, and then it goes back to the writer covered with from six to ten indorsements, all in regard to the question which was propounded.

Too Much Paper Work.

There is an immense amount of paper work. The accounts of the industrial department are duplicated oftentimes in another, and are triplicated in the accounting department. There is considerable duplication of contracts, of inspection reports, and apparently of everything else that can be duplicated. When the head of a department executes an order it happens with frequency that it is described as tiresome, and he has to defend his action.

Enough has been shown to indicate that the step the president has decided to take is absolutely necessary if the government is to

CZAR AGAIN MOVES FOR WORLD'S PEACE

Emperor Nicholas Invites the Powers to Second Conference, a la The Hague Meeting in 1899.

ROOSEVELT YIELDS RIGHT

Russian Ruler Is Just Ahead of the American Executive, Whose Purpose Was Well Known.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 18.—Emperor Nicholas today again appears before the world as a promoter of universal peace. No sooner is the Russo-Japanese war over, and even before the peace treaty has been ratified, than his majesty is issuing invitations to a second peace conference at The Hague.

That the emperor has done so was learned today from a source which leaves no shadow of a doubt as to its authenticity.

It is announced officially that "the Russian government proposes to address the foreign powers with a view to the holding of a second peace conference at The Hague," but it is known that negotiations preceding this announcement that the government "proposed to address the powers" were entered into especially with the United States and were conducted with the greatest secrecy, there being not the slightest inkling that Russia contemplated anything of the kind.

Roosevelt Concedes Initiative.

The announcement created the greatest surprise here. That Russia should plan a second conference, despite the steps already taken by President Roosevelt, was heard with amazement. It is clear that the step could not be taken by Russia without first reaching a complete understanding with President Roosevelt.

The fact that President Roosevelt is reported as being entirely in sympathy with the proposal, and that he is said to believe that to the initiator of the first Hague conference should belong the honor of convoking the second, and readily and gladly acceded to the Russian proposal, is clear proof that the conference already has been called and that President Roosevelt relinquished his part in it to Emperor Nicholas.

There is strong reason to believe that the news even of the intention of the Russian government would not be given out unless invitations already had been sent to the powers, and, possibly, that their answers had been received.

No Delay Will Be Brooked.

In this connection an interesting question arises as to how the invitation was communicated to Japan in view of the lack of diplomatic relations, but it may be delayed until such relations have been resumed or it may have been forwarded through the United States.

It was impossible to learn tonight the proposed date of the second conference or to gain even an approximate idea regarding it; but it probably will not be delayed. Russia as the power convoking the conference probably will submit an official program, the other powers submitting suggestions.

President Barely Anticipated.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Diplomatic Washington regards the action of the czar in calling a second peace conference when President Roosevelt already has taken steps to the same end as one of the sensational moves of diplomacy. The emperor knew that the president has been pressing upon the powers for more than a year the advisability of a second conference to amend the treaty at The Hague as a result of the first peace conference of 1899, and understood that in part as a result of Russia's refusal to take part in a meeting while war was in progress he had postponed the issuance of invitations to the powers.

Information had been sent to St. Petersburg, and must have reached the czar since the end of the war, that the president was on the eve of sending a circular telegram to the powers requesting them to appoint representatives to consider various measures destined not so much to bring about universal peace as further to alleviate the horrors of war.

Magnanimity in Surrender.

What arguments Baron Rosen used are not known here, but the authorities do not believe the president would have hesitated. It would have been a great feather in Mr. Roosevelt's historical cap to end his work in connection with the termination of the Russo-Japanese war by calling a peace conference, but diplomats here give him credit for magnanimity in surrendering his claim to priority when informed of the czar's wish.

It is in disregard of this knowledge that the czar has acted. He has done the president the courtesy of consulting him and practically of asking him to abandon his intention. It is believed here that Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador, broached the subject to the president during his call a couple of days ago at Sagamore Hill.

Justifying Himself Before World.

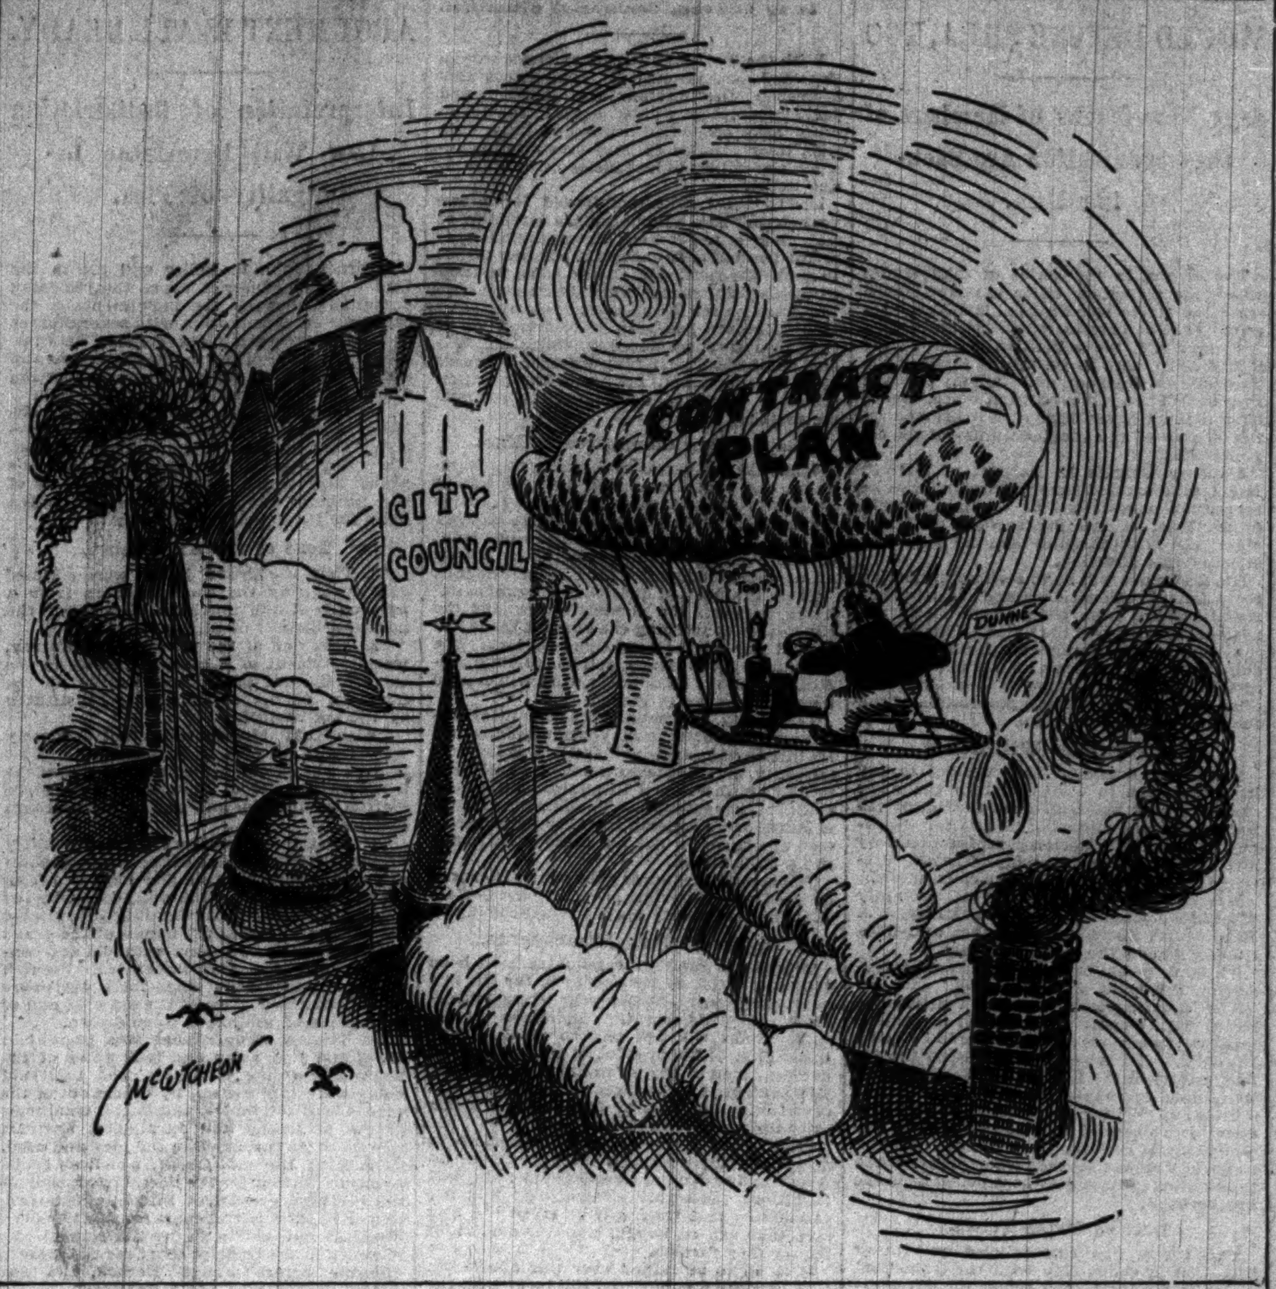
The few diplomats who are in Washington took the keenest interest tonight in the dispatch regarding the czar's action. Putting aside the questionable character of the proceeding of the Russian emperor, they ascribed his step to a desire further to emphasize his love of universal peace.

One of these men said that undoubtedly the czar wanted to show to the world that he had been opposed to the war with Japan; that he had never departed from his view in favor of disarmament and universal peace, and that he was determined to have this view accepted, if possible, when Russia had almost a million men under arms and could assert her rights in Europe and central Asia.

The issuance of the invitation by the czar would not be relished in Japan, it was thought, but the Tokio government would be compelled to accept it or stand pilloried as an advocate of war.

It is considered likely that before issuing his circular the czar consulted France, as well as the United States, and received a favorable response. The success of the call therefore is assured.

MAYOR DUNNE—"I THINK I CAN GET AROUND IT IF I DON'T ENCOUNTER ANY ADVERSE HOT AIR CURRENTS."



BIG PIPE ORGAN DAMAGED.

Leak in the Roof of Orchestra Hall Floods Instrument.

REPAIRS WILL TAKE MONTH.

May Result in Rearrangement of Early Programs of Season.

Misfortune has overtaken the pipe organ in the Orchestra hall. The instrument, for which the patrons of the Theodore Thomas concerts waited all last season, has been so badly damaged by water that it will be out of service for at least a month, and it is doubtful if it can be used before the Christmas holidays. An obstructed drain pipe and a faulty roof are responsible for the damage. The slanting roof over the rear of the Orchestra hall ends at a wall, which extends three feet above the roof level. The gutter and drain pipe, which are intended to carry off water from this roof, became clogged in some unknown way, and the recent rains resulted in a veritable pond of water accumulating on the roof. A leak soon sprung and the water dripped unnoticed into the organ pipes.

Inspection Reveals Damage.

A representative of the firm which constructed the organ came last Saturday to look over the instrument preparatory to making some slight changes which were considered advisable in the voicing. He tried the solo organ. Merely a squeak and squawk resulted. Other parts of the instrument were found to be similarly unresponsive.

An investigation showed that water had dripped into many of the pipes, and, accumulating there, had so swollen the spring valves that they would have to be replaced by new ones. The wooden pipes were the greatest sufferers in this respect, the metal pipes being less seriously affected by the influence of the moisture. It is estimated by the firm that at least a month and possibly longer will be required for the making of the new valves and putting them in place. The cost of the repairs is figured at about $500, although the complete investigation of the damage done may result in still greater expense. It is believed that the heavy rain of a week ago last Friday was responsible for the flooding of the organ.

Concerts May Be Affected.

The accident may not be without its effect on the musical arrangements for the coming season of the orchestra concerts. Last year, the lack of the organ prevented the performance of a number of important works, which otherwise would have been included in the programs. Not until after the season had ended was the instrument completed. The dedicatory concerts took place on April 27 and 28, but the regular patrons of the orchestra had not had a chance to hear what kind of an organ had been provided.

From the programs already outlined for the coming year it is evident that the intention is to give Mr. Middelschulte and the instrument the opportunity to prove their worth. Two of the first three programs announced contain numbers in which the organ plays an important and essential part.

Programs May Be Rearranged.

Unless the damage can be more quickly repaired than now seems probable, the rearrangement of these programs will be necessary. The symphonic poem, "Easter," by Volbach, which is included in the program for Oct. 27 and 28, and which is then to receive its first hearing in Chicago, has much for the organ to do. The third program was to have opened with Gilson's "Fanfare Inaugurale" for organ and orchestra and the Tschaikowsky "Manfred" Symphony, which was included in the same list, also requires the organ.

PROTEST HITS ROOSEVELT FOR RACE SUICIDE THEORY.

Pittsburg Woman Decides to Write Letter to President's Wife Urging Her to Set Him Right.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Pittsburg philanthropic women take exceptions to President Roosevelt's race suicide theory. Mrs. S. E. Lippincott, superintendent and secretary of the Society for the Improvement of the Poor, after consultation with other members of the society, has decided to write to Mrs. Roosevelt asking her to persuade the president to modify his position.

This determination became crystallized today when a woman who had been deserted by her husband, and is penniless, applied for aid. She is the mother of seventeen children, seven of whom are dead "and happy." Another is in the institution for the Feeble Minded, at Polk, Pa. Although reduced to extreme poverty by the desertion of her husband, the woman wants to apply to the president for a medal as an example of his ideal wife and mother. Mrs. Lippincott said:

"What with the wretchedness and distress of these big families raised by the shiftless poor, the equally large families brought by immigrants to this country, and the menace they are to our nation and to society, I purpose writing to Mrs. Roosevelt an appeal to her womanhood against this indiscriminate applauding of unwelcome conditions."

WOMEN TO OUST ONLY IDLE MAN

Seek to Raise Funds to Transport "Bad Example" from Suburb of Irondale.

The women of Irondale, a suburb of South Chicago, are showing a remarkable interest in the economic welfare of their community by raising sufficient money to transport the only idle man in Irondale from that place.

The marked man is Toney Hartford, 10100 Bensley avenue, who said last Saturday that he had worked for three months, and now intended to take a three months' rest. Hartford is 30 years old, unmarried, and in easy circumstances, but the women of the suburb fear that his idleness may set a bad example for their husbands and fathers.

The cause of their solicitude is found in the fact that for seven years nearly all of Irondale's men were out of work much of the time, owing to the closing of the big steel mills in 1897.

Last year the International Harvester company opened its new mills, and this boom caused the Semet Folbay Coke company of Pittsburg and the Iroquois Iron company of Chicago to erect new plants, thus giving work to every man in Irondale.

GOV. HANLY RUMORED KILLED.

Indianapolis Crowds Rush to the Statehouse to Find Executive Much Alive, Dictating Letter.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The downtown business district was intensely stirred late this afternoon by a report that Gov. Hanly had been shot while sitting in his office and was dying. Almost coincident with this rumor some one telephoned the story to the police station and Supt. Kruger and half a dozen officers started at breakneck speed to the statehouse.

Their haste and apparent excitement confirmed the story on the street and several hundred persons followed them into the statehouse.

The corridors soon were full of excited persons, who pushed into the reception room of the executive chambers. The statehouse employés and officials were surprised at the unceremonious entrance of the crowd and uniformed officers. Supt. Kruger entered Gov. Hanly's private office and found him dictating to a stenographer. He had not heard the report of his assassination.

MARQUISE ROBBED OF $40,000.

Mother of Secretary of the Spanish Minister to France Loses Fortune and Jewelry in Paris Hotel.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1905: By the New York Herald.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Marquise de Angulo, mother of the secretary of the Spanish minister to France, who is stopping at the Hotel Continental, has been robbed of $40,000 and a quantity of jewels.

ROB MANSIONS AT LEISURE.

Burglars Ransack Houses of J. H. Gilbert and Judge Kohlsaat.

BOTH FAMILIES ARE ABSENT.

At One Place Value of Plunder Is $1,500, at Other Probably More.

Obtaining entrance to the residence of James H. Gilbert, 2628 Prairie avenue, president of the Metropolitan Trust and Savings bank, burglars early yesterday robbed the house and escaped with hundreds or perhaps thousands of dollars' worth of silver plate and other valuables.

Burglars also ransacked the house of Judge C. C. Kohlsaat, 239 Ashland boulevard, Sunday night and took $1,500 worth of jewelry and silver.

Both raids were made in the absence of the families. Judge Kohlsaat discovered his loss when he came to the city from Lake Geneva yesterday morning. Mr. Gilbert has not yet been located by the police, being away with his family and does not know of the burglary.

The Gilbert house is a four story brown stone structure. It is thought by the police that the burglars climbed the tall brick wall of a building being constructed to the south of it, and forced one of the second story windows. Silver plate and other valuables were then gathered up. Drawing the blinds of almost all the windows the burglars went from room to room, carefully selecting their plunder.

Seen by a Neighbor.

A light seen through the curtains of one of the first floor windows attracted the attention of a neighbor who had arisen before daybreak, and the policeo f the Cottage Grove avenue station were notified.

Detectives were hurried to the house, but when they arrived the thieves had escaped. The "flying squadron" of Assistant Chief Schuettler's office will search the district for some trace of the burglars. Lieut. Walsh of the Cottage Grove avenue station detailed a policeman early this morning to guard the Gilbert house against further raids.

It is expected that Mr. Gilbert will return to the city today.

Judge's House Ransacked.

Judge Kohlsaat and his family have been staying at Lake Geneva during the summer, leaving the house in the care of attendants. When the judge came to the city in the morning to hold court he learned of the burglary.

The robbers tore up carpets and pulled down pictures in their efforts to obtain valuables. Chairs were overturned and thrown about the floor.

The circumstances of the robbery are not definitely known. Several detectives are working on the case.

Robbed of Forty Years' Savings.

Joseph Schrub, a watchman, 62 years old, worked for forty years at $1.50 a day and saved $1,300, only to have it stolen while he slept last evening. His roommate, Joseph Scheik, has been arrested in connection with the theft. The two men occupied a room at 134 North avenue. Schrub had taken his money from the bank, intending to leave soon for his home in Germany.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Since the conclusion of peace the gold shipments have turned towards New York. MINISTERS MOVE TO INDICT MAYOR

State's Attorney Refuses to Act on Charge of Malfeasance in Allowing Sunday Saloons.

SAYS IT'S NOT FLAGRANT.

Grand Jurors Vote True Bills Against Managers and Employes of Floating Poolroom.

Because of Mayor Dunne's refusal to close the saloons on Sunday a committee of ten ministers and laymen appeared before State's Attorney Healy yesterday afternoon and asked for the indictment of the mayor on charges of malfeasance in office. The Rev. W. A. Bartlett, pastor of the First Congregational church, headed the committee.

If Mr. Healy was startled by the request he did not show it. He politely told the committee that he would not take any steps for the indictment of Chicago's chief executive.

"Not unless it is for something flagrant," he added. "The people elected him and they knew his platform."

Mr. Healy also told the committee that he would not himself take the initiative in enforcing the Sunday closing law. He said that if proceedings were instituted in justice courts and the saloonkeepers were bound over to the grand jury he would prosecute them.

City of Traverse Indictments.

The effort of the ministers to have Mayor Dunne indicted was the closing incident in a busy day for the grand jury, the principal event of which was the voting of indictments against the principals and employés of the gambling syndicate that operates the City of Traverse.

The indictments charge violation of the state gambling laws by operating the steamer as a poolroom. The following are accused as principals:

White, William ("Bud"), proprietor.	Hyman, B. R.
Jones, Stephen, skipper of boat.	Perry, Harry.
Burns, John.	Smith, "Social."
	Zacharias, Barney.

The following are accused as employés:

Aspect, ——.	Nesbitt, Jack.
Bunn, ——.	McCarthy, David.
Bobbe, Sam.	Peebles, ——.
Cady, Dave.	Ryan, John.
Davis, "Doc."	Vinn, Harry.
Farley, Jack.	Wolf, William.
Firestein, Gus.

Other Developments of the Day.

Other developments of the day in the grand jury room were:

Arthur Burrage Farwell visited "whisky row" and prepared to present evidence to the grand jury of the character of five dives where women congregate.

B. R. Hyman, secretary of the gambling syndicate, after a secret meeting of bookmakers, called on State's Attorney Healy to submit preliminary evidence of alleged collusion between certain racetrack men and the police force directed against marine poolroom.

Evidence submitted to Mr. Healy of eleven South Chicago saloons that were open on primary election day in violation of the state law.

Additional evidence laid before the grand jury of widespread naturalization frauds; detectives sent out to arrest Italian-Americans charged with trafficking in fraudulent naturalization papers.

Assistant State's Attorney Rittenhouse laid evidence against "straw" bondsmen before grand jury; sufficient, it was said, to cause twenty indictments.

Twenty-six indictments returned for murder, burglary, assaults, and larceny.

Ministers' Committee Arrives.

The members of the ministerial committee talked earnestly among themselves as they waited, sitting on the long settees in the ante-room of the grand jury room, for an audience with State's Attorney Healy. When they were asked concerning their errand they were not communicative.

"We have an important matter to bring up before Mr. Healy," said Dr. Bartlett. "Yes, it is against Sunday saloon closing, but it is more far reaching than that."

"Have you been to see Mayor Dunne again?"

"No," was the dry reply. "We have seen him once. That was enough."

The committee was the same that had called a week previous on the mayor to get his reply:

"No, gentlemen, I will not close the saloons on Sunday. The people of Chicago do not want it. They decided that question in the negative years ago by referendum vote. You might see State's Attorney Healy. The Sunday closing law is on the statute book."

Healy Hears the Proposition.

W. J. Miller, an attorney, did most of the talking for the committee when it was admitted to Mr. Healy's presence, though all the members had something to say. The Rev. R. D. Cookingham, the Rev. B. F. Grenoble, the Rev. J. D. Leveringham, the Rev. A. L. Shute, and some of the lay members of their congregations were present.

"We have been advised," said Mr. Miller, "to come here and see you in relation to the Sunday closing law."

Mr. Healy had his answer ready.

"The courts would be clogged," said he, "if the state's attorney's office undertook this matter. In a good many cases, with our cosmopolitan population, juries—which the defendants would ask for, you may be sure—would bring in acquittals. If you will bring cases against the saloonkeepers in justice courts and secure convictions, I promise you that this office will stir itself to secure indictments by the grand jury. It is a state law, as you say, and I am sworn to enforce it, but your recourse is through the justice courts."

"Should not the city enforce this law?" was asked.

"That is for Mayor Dunne to say."

Real Object Stated.

Members of the committee looked at each other, and then one, bolder than the rest, laid before the state's attorney the real object of its visit.

"This morning," said he, "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE contained an article in which it was said a report was current that the state's attorney's office contemplated proceeding against Mayor Dunne for malfeasance in office. Cannot Mayor Dunne be indicted for malfeasance for his failure to close the saloons on Sunday? If we bring the evidence before you will you proceed against the mayor for this plain neglect of his duty?"

The committee looked at Mr. Healy eagerly. The state's attorney toyed with a silver mounted paper weight as he answered:

"No—I will not. I would not consider proceeding against Mayor Dunne in the manner you have suggested unless it was for something flagrant. Mayor Dunne, if I am correctly informed, gave his views on the Sunday closing proposition before election. The people of Chicago knew what his platform was and they elected him."

The committee said something about saloons open on Sunday being flagrant. Mr. Healy smiled and said nothing. The committee departed.

Gamblers' Secretary Alleges Graft.

"Did you want to see me, sir?" asked the state's attorney briskly, coming out of his private office.

A little man with Vandyke beard and keen eyes jumped up and presented his card. He was B. B. Hyman, secretary of the gambling syndicate that operates the City of Traverse. He went into the state's attorney's office and the door was closed.

"I want to say in advance," said Mr. Hyman, "that I am not here to beg off from the grand jury. If the grand jury sees fit to indict us, well and good. We can prove, at the proper time, that there never has been any gambling on the Traverse in Illinois waters, in your jurisdiction."

"Well? I haven't much time."

"Did it ever occur to you, Mr. Healy, that there is something behind all this movement against the City of Traverse? Do you think for a minute that the police are actuated entirely by motives of reform? I want to tell you what is at the bottom of it."

Mr. Healy promised to take up any evidence of corruption that might be submitted to him.

Testimony Against Pool Sellers.

Meanwhile Detectives Wooldridge, Schubert, Breternitz, Barchard, and others who had voyaged on the City of Traverse, were giving their evidence before the grand jury. They told that they had bought pool tickets on the boat when it was in Illinois waters.

Lieut. Prim and Henry Grohmann, the latter an engineer in the employ of the government, told how they had located the Illinois state line by surveys from a government cutter 1,500 feet east of the west line of the government pier in South Chicago.

The names of at least thirty persons, including the principals of the syndicate that spent $40,000 in fitting the boat up, were submitted to the jury, and after hearing all the evidence indictments were voted.

The testimony of the detectives was divided as to the different days that the boat was boarded and as to the identity of the persons in charge on the specific days named.

All the detectives were agreed that Harry Vinn was announcer of the races and that Stephen Jones was in charge of the boat as captain.

"Bud White was acting as captain of the boat on Aug. 27," said one of the detectives, "and Hyman was giving orders. Nick Farley was acting as a sheet writer."

Saloons Open on Primary Day.

Arthur Burrage Farwell, president of the Chicago Law and Order league and secretary of the Hyde Park Protective association, sent to Mr. Healy evidence that eleven South Chicago saloonkeepers kept their saloons open on Sept. 16, the socialist primary election day. Each charge is substantiated by four witnesses. The list follows:

Goes & Peters, One Hundredth street and Avenue L.

James J. Abern, 10063 Avenue N.

Frederick Heneskamp, 347 One Hundredth street.

William F. Thiebe, 10062 Avenue M.

Charles Blenkern, 10101 Ewing avenue.

Martin Dwyer, southeast corner Sixty-seventh street and Stony Island avenue.

L. Heyman, southwest corner Stony Island avenue and Sixty-seventh street.

Fishback, 10002 Ewing avenue.

Vernon E. Wright, 9388 Ewing avenue.

Joseph Kruintz, 9510 Ewing avenue.

Fred Hehr, Ninety-sixth street and Ewing avenue.

Mr. Farwell wasn't satisfied with that. He had heard a good deal about "Whisky row," in State street, south of Polk street, and in the evening on his way home he stopped in several saloons there.

Mr. Farwell said that he would make a memorandum of the resorts and call the state's attorney's attention to them.

DRESSMAKERS EAGER TO SEE 'NEWEST FIGURE' MECHANISMS

Large Number of "Modistes" Attend Lectures on Opening Day of National Convention in the Auditorium.

"Venus de Milo of Ill.," was the greatest attraction yesterday at the opening of the dressmakers' national convention in the Auditorium hotel. For several hours she posed in "Parisian creations," "opera gowns," and "street dresses" for the instruction of the assembled dressmakers. Later little booklets were given out, and, after reading the following inscription on the cover, the women decided to wait to see the demonstrator:

DO YOU WANT TO LOOK LIKE MLLE. —,
THE DEMONSTRATOR?
IF YOU DO WEAR G— S:—
Perforated Hip Forms. Perforated Bust Forms.
Shoulder Braces. Stocking Supporters.
Leg Forms.
THEY FILL EVERY HOLLOW.
She Wears 'Em. Nothing Real About Her.
Women Only Admitted to the Lectures.

Mme. Ross-Wade, the New York lecturer who created such a sensation by her corset demonstration, will not be present at the convention. Her place on the program will be taken by Mme. Baker. Mme. Baker said she did not know why Mme. Wade was not coming, and Manager Ruben said the same thing.

"I don't know why she isn't coming," declared one dressmaker, "and I didn't care to ask, because I was afraid I might find out."

It was said Mme. Wade remained in New York because she feared Chicago audiences would not appreciate her lectures.

BOARD FAVORS A SEPARATE JUVENILE COURT BUILDING.

Mayor Likes Brundage's Suggestion and Will Ask City Council to Give the Matter Consideration.

President Brundage's recommendation that a separate building for the juvenile court and detention home be erected jointly by the city and county was approved yesterday by the county board. Commissioners William C. Hartray, Edwin K. Walker, and William J. Umbach, Miss Julia Lathrop of Hull house, Justice Timothy D. Hurley, and Judge O. N. Carter of the County court were named as a committee to discuss the matter with a committee of city officials.

A copy of the resolutions adopted by the county board favoring the plan was sent to Mayor Dunne, who said he would coöperate heartily with the county officials.

"It probably would be a good thing to have the court held in some place where the little fellows would not be dragged around through the streets of the downtown districts and through the corridors of the busy office buildings," he said, "but I do not see how the city can legally take any action or where the money could be obtained. It is a matter of considerable importance, and I am in favor of having the city council appoint a committee to act with a committee from the county board."

DETECTIVE AGENCIES RAIDED.

Nineteen Warrants Sworn Out for Men Who Have Not Paid the $100 License Fee.

Nineteen warrants have been obtained by license officers for the arrest of proprietors of alleged detective agencies, who have failed to secure a license from the city by paying the fee of $100 required. Four places were raided yesterday and the following men arrested:

John Curtin of Curtin & Huffman, 9154 Commercial avenue.

Wilhelm S. A. Lundbeck, 517 West Polk street.

Frank Ryan, 311 Warren avenue.

H. V. von Sorenson, Hyde Park.

The arrested men all gave bonds, as did H. B. Marwill, who appeared at the Stanton avenue station in the evening and gave himself up. Marwill says the issuing of a warrant against him was a mistake, as he works for his father, Samuel Marwill, 3521 Wabash avenue, who is a cigar manufacturer.

Louis Grossman, who had been arrested previously, was arraigned in Justice Caverly's court in the morning and took a change of venue to Justice Bradwell's court.

SEEKS RECEIVER FOR TEAMSTERS.

Lawyer Will Try to Tie Up Funds of the International Brotherhood.

WOULD DEPOSE SHEA, TOO

Says Nine-tenths of Members of the Organization Are Backing Him.

The climax in the series of misfortunes which the teamsters' union has experienced since the strike was declared last April now promises to be a receivership. Attorneys in a few days will file a petition in the United States court here to tie up the funds of the Teamsters' International union, to have President Shea removed from office, and to have a court agent appointed to assume entire charge of the tangled affairs of the organization.

Attorney Charles L. Bartlett of Detroit, Mich., who arrived here yesterday, says he represents nine-tenths of the membership of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and is prepared to take the necessary steps in this direction.

His first move will be to seek an injunction restraining President Shea and the other national officers from using the funds in the national treasury of the union. This will be followed by the application for a receivership. Mr. Bartlett says he has instructions also to begin proceedings against President Shea on a charge of misappropriation of the funds of the organization.

Shea's Friends Will Resist.

Friends of President Shea decided to pay little attention to what they term the latest maneuvers of the anti-Shea faction of the union to secure control of its affairs. Attorney Bartlett, they declared, represented only a minority of the membership. They are prepared, however, to contest the court move.

Mr. Bartlett, upon his arrival, promptly went into a conference with Frank Ray, A. J. Reed, John Sheridan, and other anti-Shea leaders among the local teamsters.

"I shall spend about ten days here investigating President Shea's record," said he. "The indictments in the state's attorney's hands will be examined into, and I intend to look up the reports of Shea's conduct during the strike. I have canvassed nearly the entire country, and I find that nine out of every ten unions are opposed to Shea."

President Walter J. Gibbons of the teamsters' joint council said 75 per cent of the teamsters in Chicago have decided to stick to Shea, and that the men who are behind the prosecution of Shea may be expelled from the brotherhood.

Cost of Strike Trials.

The costly and unparalleled amount of litigation in connection with the teamsters' strike is set forth in a report made yesterday to the Chicago Federation of Labor by its attorneys, Daniel L. Cruice, and A. S. Langlie. Statistics show that nineteen lawyers were kept busy for four months in defending the union men arrested during the trouble.

In that period, the report says, 565 union men were arrested on 709 charges. Of this number 439 wer teamsters, and the remainder members of other organizations. Fines amounting to $678 were assessed against 157 of the defendants, and the other court costs brought the total expense of litigation up to $1,783.

The comparative combativeness of the different classes of striking teamsters is shown in the following table listing the number of men arrested:

Truck drivers	164
Coal teamsters	41
Lumber teamsters	28
Department store drivers	21
Baggage and parcel drivers	10
Miscellaneous	166
Total	430

Various Causes for Arrests.

Disorderly conduct was the charge on which 477 arrests were made. Four men were arrested for blockading the streets, 19 for resisting the police, and 20 for violation of various city ordinances. Arrests were made also on 189 state charges, 100 of these arrests being for assault.

The report asserts that nonunion drivers hired by the Employers' association were responsible for much of the disturbance in the streets, and the labor attorneys say that, while only 25 per cent of the union men arrested were found guilty, nearly 60 per cent of the nonunionists were fined. Of the strikebreakers 187 were arrested and 127 found guilty.

In conclusion the attorneys make the following comment:

"We are pleased to state that during the teamsters' strike we have learned of no union man who has been found guilty of carrying concealed weapons, and would call your attention to the eighty-four strikebreakers arrested and the sixty-two convicted for the offense of carrying concealed weapons."

Freight Handlers Avert Strike.

The labor horizon was cleared in part by the subsidence of the freight handlers' dispute. The union decided to accept the conditions of the last year and thus averted the threatened strike which has been hanging fire for a week.

Five railroad companies which have agreements with the freight handlers renewed these contracts. They are the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the Santa Fé, the Burlington, the Northwestern, and the Illinois Central. The Wabash, which does not enter into agreements with its employés, posted notices in freighthouses stating that the old terms will prevail for another year. This example was followed by the Monon and the Baltimore and Ohio.

More Printers Called Out.

Chicago Typographical union No. 16 called one more strike in the afternoon. The firm affected is the New Voice Publishing company, which employs four compositors. Organizer John C. Harding said 120 concerns had signed the eight hour day agreement.

Secretary Hamm of the Chicago Typothetæ expressed the opinion that many of the eight hour contracts were conditional upon the union scoring a victory over the big printing houses. He said he had received letters during the day from more than fifty "independent" firms who pledged coöperation in resisting the union. These concerns are said to employ about 350 men.

Verdict for Painters' Union.

The refusal of union men to work with a nonunionist does not constitute ground for damages, according to a decision given by Judge Gary in the Superior court. John P. Burgher said he was expelled from local union No. 147 of the Brotherhood of Painters, and had been unable afterwards to obtain employment because of stories circulated by the members of the union. He asked $35,000 damages. Judge Gary held that the union painters had a right to refuse to work with Burgher, and he instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the defendants.

SAYS HER FATHER SOLD HER.

Girl Asserts She Fled from Parents to Escape Forced Marriage to Man She Dislikes.

Mary Sarok, 16 years old, 116 West Eighteenth place, told Justice Sabath yesterday that her father had sold her to Anton Kiminish, one of his boarders, for $5, and, because she refused to marry her father's choice, he locked her in a room, from which she escaped by climbing through a window.

Her father had her arrested on a charge of delinquency. He said she was in the habit of attending dance halls until 1 o'clock in the morning, and he locked her in her room to break her of the habit.

The girl said she works in a factory, and earns $6 a week. The case was continued to Sept. 27.

CAMPAIGN SOON TO OPEN.

DEMOCRATS TO BEGIN PRELIMINARY WORK TODAY.

Executive and County Committees to Meet This Afternoon to Consider Filling Vacancies on Ticket and to Have Talk with Candidates About Contributions — Republicans Have Latter Point Settled and Next Step Is to Canvass Senatorial Situation.

With the meeting of the democratic executive and county central committees this afternoon the preliminary sanitary and judicial campaign will be opened. The democrats have scheduled a heart to heart talk with their candidates, and have also to consider the filling of vacancies on the drainage ticket.

Dr. O. W. Lewke, nominated for a one year term, has announced his intention of resigning, and George J. Thompson, another of the nominees, is uncertain whether or not to make the race. Dr. Lewke has a position as coroner's physician which he does not care to relinquish for the chances of election, and Mr. Thompson has been given a position at the parental school since his nomination. He had not decided yesterday whether he would stay on the ticket, but said the question probably would be decided at the committee meeting.

Republican Committee to Meet.

While the democrats are opening their campaign the republicans will be sending out notices of the first meeting of the executive committee, which will be held next Monday afternoon. The republicans have one point settled over which the democrats still have an argument coming. That is assessments.

There is a decided difference of opinion existing between the committeemen and the candidates concerning the amount the latter should pay for the campaign expenses. The committee needs money, and has told the candidates that the vigor of the work will depend upon the ilnews furnished.

Tom Carey, chairman of the committee, announced two months ago that he had finished his interesting career as "settling agent" for the party, and that the committee would have to find another angel to guarantee the rent and the other expenses. The democrats have no headquarters, being installed temporarily free of charge in the old democratic rooms in La Salle street.

The committeemen say the quarters cannot be used for campaign purposes, and protest that the rent money must be forthcoming.

Disagree Over Assessments.

Republican sanitary candidates have been assessed $3,000, $1,200 and $400, for the five year, three year, and one year terms, respectively. The democratic candidates on the same ticket will not pay so much. They think that $1,000 is a lot of money for the five year men to pay, or promise to pay; that $500 is ample for the three year men and that something like $200 or $100 will be a fair price for the one year men.

An element in the executive committee is charged with not taking a too enthusiastic interest in the coming election, under the best conditions, and this element has told the candidates that they will be given the best race that can be bought with the amount of money they furnish.

It is all to be talked over this afternoon. The executive committee will meet with the candidates at 2 o'clock and the county committee has been called to meet at 3 o'clock.

In calling the meeting of the republican executive committee Chairman Reddick announces the purpose to be to ascertain opinion on the matter of opening the campaign. That the actual campaigning will be restricted to October is assured and the managers believe that the shorter the period the better.

Senatorial Situation.

It is predicted that the republican executive committeemen will canvass the senatorial situation carefully as far as it affects Cook county. James Pease said that the only method which could be adopted would be to nominate one set of delegates in each district, and then have them instructed according to the popular vote on the senatorship.

The local managers expect to have some thing to say to Gov. Deneen in the matter, and some of them may go to Springfield for the state fair, when the matter will be thrashed out.

Scott Gale, appointed inspector in the grain office from Ogle county, took his position during the day. Gale's appointment is credited to Frank O. Lowden.

WIFE WHO SEEKS A DIVORCE PUT IN DETENTION HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Anna K. Henniger, Who Accused Actress in Bill, Is at Institution Pending Further Inquiry Into Sanity

Mrs. Anna Henniger, who recently filed divorce bills against Dr. Joseph Henniger, mentioning Miss Mabel Montgomery, formerly of the Players' Stock company, has been taken to the detention hospital. Her mind is said to be impaired but, according to the physicians, a few weeks' rest will restore her to a normal condition.

Accustomed to a home with every convenience, a woman of refinement and accomplishments, she now occupies a room in company with three insane patients. She will be subjected to a further examination next Thursday. Her husband, Dr. Joseph Henniger, declares that he will send her to a private sanitarium, and that pending her recovery he will take care of the 7 year old daughter, Helen.

Henniger, who is a prominent mason, has had an interesting career. Beginning as a waiter in the Bismarck hotel, he received an inheritanc of $50,000 from a relative in Germany. He was married and, subsequently, he received a degree in dentistry from a German college in this city. He has conducted an office in the Bush Temple, and is the proprietor of a confectionery store in the same building.

MUD IN STREET SAVES A LIFE.

Lubricates Forty-eighth Avenue So Child Struck by Car Slides Along Till Motorman Can Stop.

The muddy condition of a city street saved the life of a child who was run down by a street car yesterday afternoon. Johnnie Touhy, 3 years old, whose parents live at 110 North Forty-eighth avenue, was playing in the street, and ran across the tracks. A Forty-eighth avenue car knocked him down and rolled him under the fender into a mud puddle. The mud lubricated the street so that the child slid along while the motorman was stopping the car. It was though by the bystanders that the boy was dead when picked up. When the mud had been washed from him it was found that his body did not show even a scratch, and in a few minutes he ran away, calling for his playmates.

PROF. STARR OFF FOR AFRICA.

Departs from Chicago to Spend a Year Studying Batwa Pygmies and Other Native Tribes.

Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago left yesterday afternoon on his trip to Africa to study the Batwa pygmies, and other native tribes, living in central African jungles. He was accompanied by his official photographer, Manuel Gonzales, the Mexican boy, whom he is educating. His baggage consisted of eleven trunks filled with cameras, a moving picture machine, plaster paris for casts of heads, trinkets, toys, note books.

MRS. C. B. FARWELL BETTER.

Recovers, Temporarily at Least, from a Severe Attack of Heart Trouble.

The condition of Mrs. Charles B. Farwell, widow of the former senator from Illinois, who is ill with heart trouble at her residence in Lake Forest, was reported as favorable last night. She is in no immediate danger, according to Dr. C. E. Bancroft, who is attending her, but, owing to her advanced age, it is feared that she may not recover. Mrs. Farwell has suffered several attacks of heart trouble since last spring.

MOVE TO QUASH BEEF TRUEBILLS

Packers' Attorneys Decide to File Motion Today Opposing the Indictments.

ARGUMENT IS ALL READY.

Interpretation of Redistricting Law Will Determine Legality of Plea.

Attorney John S. Miller will file in the United States District court this morning a motion to quash the indictments of the packers. In consultation with several other counsel representing the defense he completed the draft of the motion last night and sent a copy of it, together with supporting affidavits, to District Attorney Morrison.

This opposition to the indictments Mr. Miller technically terms a "plea in abatement," but in effect it is a motion to quash. The plea sets up the argument that the grand jury which returned indictments of the packers was an illegally constituted body for the following reasons:

Text of the Arguments.

"1. That the grand jurors were selected and drawn by the commissioners from a part only of the northern division of the northern district of Illinois.

"2. That one of the jurors, John Murray, was a resident of Kankakee county in the eastern district of Illinois, and not of the northern district of Illinois, as constituted by the act of 1905.

"Also that Murray was not properly served with a venire or summons to appear; that he was summoned by the marshal of the northern district of Illinois in the eastern district of Illinois, and not in the northern district.

"3. That the grand jury was not publicly drawn; that knowledge of the time and place of drawing was withheld and concealed from the public, including the defendants, by the officers charged with the duty of drawing the jurors; and that the names of the grand jurors, when drawn, were withheld and concealed until they were impaneled, although divers requests were made for a disclosure of the time and place of the drawing and of the names of the jurors when drawn.

"4. That a stenographer was present in the grand jury room and took notes of the testimony of the witnesses, and that said notes were typewritten by others out of the presence of the jurors, and that a transcript of the testimony and an alleged abstract thereof were furnished to the jury and used.

"5. That the indictment, which as found by a jury sitting for the northern division of the northern district of Illinois, was not returned in the District court for said northern division, but, as shown by the record, was returned in the District court for the eastern division before Judge Bethea, and that Judge Bethea was not a district judge for the northern division, or for the division or district for which the indictment was found and returned."

Argue on Redistricting Law.

The validity of most of these contentions will be determined by the interpretation of the law redistricting the federal judicial circuits which went into effect March 3. When the jury was drawn and started in to do business, it was in the northern division of the northern district, but when it completed its work, it had, by the change of boundardy lines, passed into the new eastern division. It was impaneled by a judge of the old northern division, but was discharged by a judge of the new eastern division. The packers' counsel argue that this is an irregularity. United States Attorney Morrison holds that the law was not meant thus to be retroactive.

The other points in the plea, Mr. Miller declares, are violations of the statutes regulating the impaneling and conduct of federal grand juries.

Packers' Attorneys in Conference.

The office of Mr. Miller, the senior counsel, was the headquarters throughout the day of the preparations for the defense of the packers. Representing the Cudahys were Gen. John C. Cowin of Omaha, and Attorneys Moritz Rosenthal and Brode B. Davis. William J. Hynes, also, had a talk with Mr. Miller, but it is understood that he is not as yet retained in the case. Attorney William Rothmann has charge of several dozen affidavits supporting the foregoing contentions in regard to the secret drawing and alleged illegal conduct of the grand jury.

District Attorney Morrison said last night that he was studying the plea. In the course of a few days he will file an answer, which either will be a demurrer or a denial of the plea. Judge Humphrey will then take the point under advisement. If he decides in favor of the defense the indictments will be quashed. If the decision is adverse to the defense, the trial of the packers will commence without delay.

"The plea is long and it will take me some time to look it over. I cannot at this time discuss the importance of the allegations contained in it, and it is probable that nothing will be done in court concerning it for several days or at least until I can study the matter carefully. Concerning the charge that the names of the jurymen were kept secret until they were impaneled, all I can say is that it was our business to keep the names secret. No one had any business to know the names weeks before they were served or impaneled."

DR. W. R. HARPER UNDERGOES SLIGHT SURGICAL OPERATION.

Rumors Regarding University President's Health Set at Rest by Statement from Dr. Frank Billings.

More alarming reports concerning the physical condition of President W. R. Harper of the University of Chicago were heard yesterday on the campus. One of these was to the effect that Dr. Harper was failing in strength; another that a new operation was to be performed.

In the evening Dr. Harper's physician made a detailed statement of the actual condition of his patient. This statement was:

"On Monday a week ago Dr. Harper returned home and during the week suffered from indigestion, the result of intestinal retention. On Sunday a minor operation was performed by Drs. Murphy and Bevan, which was so slight that neither chloroform nor ether was required. Dr. Harper has reacted and has taken food all day and has a normal pulse and temperature. The statement of his physicians is that he will be up and about his usual affairs within a few days.

"Inasmuch as Dr. Harper's general health is good and the operation so insignificant, no further statements will be made by his physicians. FRANK BILLINGS, M. D."

REFUSES TO COOK; IS STABBED.

George Golosian Is Seriously Wounded by Roommate Following a Quarrel.

George Golosian, a Servian, refused last night to cook a beefsteak for the supper of his roommate and was stabbed in the stomach, probably fatally. Golosian roomed with Stephen Grevichan at 1358 Clybourn avenue. The Servians usually cooked their own meals in the kitchen of the house, and at supper time the two men quarreled as to which of them should go to the meat market. Golosian finally purchased a beefsteak. When he returned he was ordered to cook the meat. A fight ensued, during which Grevichan picked up a butcher knife and stabbed his opponent. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where it was said he will die. Grevichan was arrested.

Arrest of Reckless Chauffeur.

Robert R. Mattoon, 18 years old, a chauffeur employed by C. A. Coey & Co., 1323 Michigan avenue, was arrested last evening for running his automobile on the Rush street bridge after the danger signal had been displayed.

MAYOR'S PLAN HAS RIVAL.

JUDGE P. S. GROSSCUP ALSO SUGGESTS A REFERENDUM.

Federal Jurist Wants Ordinance Extending Traction Franchise Voted On by People—Dunne Protests That Submission of Two Contrary Propositions on the Same Ballot Would Cause Confusion in Minds of Citizens—To Explain Plan in Speech.

"Which referendum?" was the question asked in traction quarters.

Mayor Dunne wants a referendum on his "contract plan," and yesterday Judge Grosscup said he would like a referendum on a franchise extension ordinance. No more have been announced up to date.

"I am glad Judge Grosscup and myself agree on something," was the remark of the mayor when told of the position of the federal jurist. But when asked how two different referendums were to be had at the same time the mayor stopped joking and said:

"It really is a serious condition. It manifestly is impossible to submit two diametrically different propositions to the people on the same ballot and ask them to vote yes or no on each.

"If we are to have a referendum which is of value a single distinct and clearly defined proposition must be put before the voters to see whether they want it or not. To put two conflicting propositions before them would simply confound the issue. We would not get a verdict.

Council to Arrange Ballot.

"It is possible, however, for the council to determine which plan it wishes to have submitted to the popular vote. It can present the 'contract plan,' or it can present the franchise plan, but it would be confusing to present both."

"If a franchise plan should be presented and should receive a majority of the votes cast, would you sign the ordinance?" the mayor was asked.

"Naturally, I would like to see the ordinance first," he replied, "but I will say, as a general principle, I am a believer in the duty of any public official to do as he has been instructed by the people, whether it agrees with his own ideas or not."

Wants People to Decide.

Judge Grosscup made his plea for a referendum just before taking a train for the east. He first announced that he had given Receivers Sampsell and Eckels full power to conduct negotiations with the city for a renewal of the franchises of the Union Traction company, and then added:

"I see Mayor Dunne is about to begin a speaking campaign for his contract plan of settlement. I am glad of it. The traction problem must eventually come before the people for settlement. The people must be the jury. I am not afraid that a fair business like settlement will not be approved by the people.

"What I hope for is a speedy agreement, so that, giving the people a chance to think it over and talk it over, the whole street car matter can be speedily closed."

Mayor Will Speak Tonight.

The mayor is to make a speech explaining his contract plan this evening at Schmidt's hall, Lincoln avenue and Roscoe street.

"It is the only speech I have so far arranged to make," the mayor said.

Judge Grosscup departed for New York at noon. He expects to be back on Saturday. President Mitten of the Chicago City company is in Buffalo today, and may go to New York City before coming back to Chicago. He promises that when he does get back he will be able to answer the question as to whether anything less than a twenty year franchise would be accepted.

By agreement between lawyers the quo warranto suit whereby the city is attacking the "ninety-nine year claims" of the traction companies was continued until Oct. 16.

JUDGES WALK UPSTAIRS; ELEVATOR SERVICE SCANT.

Only Two Cars in Fort Dearborn Building Stop at Court Floors, and Hundreds Wait Long or Climb.

There was confusion at the opening of the Superior and Circuit courts yesterday. Hundreds of lawyers and prospective jurymen rushed through the halls of the Fort Dearborn building, where the offices of the clerks of the courts are located, and where the majority of the courtrooms are, trying to find the proper rooms. For a time nearly 200 persons were packed in a small hallway trying to get into the two elevators set aside for the court service. When lawyers and other persons went into the regular entrance of the Fort Dearborn building they were directed to 184 Clark street by a loud voiced elevator starter, who said:

"All elevators in this entrance do not stop at court floors."

After waiting in vain for elevators to carry them to the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth floors, more than a hundred lawyers and several judges climbed the stairways. Among the judges who mounted the stairs were Judge Clifford and Judge Holdom.

President Brundage of the county board, when seen about the lack of elevator service declared that it had been the arrangement that the two new elevators put in service should be exclusively for courtroom floor service, but that all the elevators should stop at all the floors. He said the matter would be looked into.

NEW LINCOLN PARK BOARD HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING.

Reorganizes on Lines of Preceding Commission as Far as Practicable—Old Policy to Be Continued.

The Lincoln park board was reorganized last night at the first meeting of the new commissioners. It being the policy of the new board to carry out the plans of the old, few changes in office were made and it is announced that no changes in the working force will follow.

The following officers were elected:

President—Francis T. Simmons, to succeed W. W. Tracy.

Vice president—Bryan Lathrop, to succeed himself.

Auditor—Charles P. Whitney, to succeed Mr. Simmons.

Attorney—Frank Hamlin, to succeed himself.

Treasurer—James B. Forgan, to succeed himself.

Personal arrangements made by the commissioners necessitated a night meeting. Mr. Simmons leaves Chicago Wednesday, sailing for Europe Saturday. Mr. Lathrop was at his summer home in the east but returned for the meeting. Amos Pettibone leaves the city today.

"There will be no changes in the park service," said President Simmons, after the meeting, "and the policy of the old board will be carried out."

MANY RACES IN BROTHERHOOD.

Nearly All Divisions of Humanity to Be Represented in St. Andrew's Convention This Week.

Of the five great divisions of the human race—Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethiopian, Indian and Malayan—all save the Malayan will have representatives at the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, for which the thousand delegates go into "retreat" at the University of Chicago tomorrow evening.

The chief Mongolian representative will be the Rev. Kong Yin Tet, a young Chinese minister from Honolulu. He will reach Chicago tomorrow. Another delegation that will attract attention will be that from the Sioux Indians.

Many of the delegates will leave the retreat Sunday evening without having any idea of Chicago outside the university campus and St. James' church, on the north side, where the brotherhood was founded. To furnish an opportunity to those who wish it, to see the city, arrangements have been made to have excursions around Chicago Monday, after the conference has closed. The Church club will give a banquet Monday evening to such delegates as may remain over.

AIRSHIP AWAITING A CALM

WIND TOO HIGH YESTERDAY FOR ATTEMPTING FLIGHT.

Aeronaut Knabenshue Says He Can Handle Craft in a Twelve Mile Breeze, but Thinks Limit of Eight Safer, and Will Try When Weather Conditions Accord with His Views—Big Crowds Watch in Vain for Expected Wonder.

Aeronaut Knabenshue will make an attempt to sail over Chicago in his airship today. The wind yesterday was too high for him to make the trip in safety.

Preparations were making all day for the trip and thousands crowded to the White City to witness the start of the flight. The police had to drive back the crowds that gathered at the gate. Telephone operators answered questions as to the prospect of the trip every minute of the day.

Late in the afternoon the rudder of the airship broke, while Knabenshue was trying to adjust it. This would have caused further delay, but the wind at that time was blowing at the rate of fifteen miles an hour and the announcement was made that a trial would be made this morning. Knabenshue will not ascend unless the wind is light. He fixes the speed at eight miles an hour, but says he can operate in twelve.

Tent Hides the Airship.

The airship, which is constructed of squares of Japanese silk, and is run by a gasoline engine, was hidden in a tent all day, and none but the few that paid the price of admission saw it. As the advertised hour for sailing approached the entrances to this space were blocked, and all eyes watched the workmen at the tent gates or the flags that told the strength of the breeze.

At 5:30 o'clock the "spieler," who had been explaining the mysteries of the airship all day, shouted out that no ascension would take place.

"Humbug, humbug," shouted an old farmer.

"Don't get blind watching for it in the morning," said a sarcastic woman.

Crowds Watch Downtown.

In the downtown streets more expectant crowds huddled together, scanning the smoke line for some signs of the approaching wonder. The streets near the Masonic temple were blocked, and near Thirty-ninth street and Wabash avenue other crowds were stationed. If conditions prove unfavorable Knabenshue will go no farther than the latter place.

LOVE FOR LIQUOR CAUSES SALESMAN TO KILL HIMSELF.

George C. Atwood, While Crazed with Drink, Ends His Life on a Boat in Pittsburg.

Driven insane by drink, George C. Atwood, 31 years old, traveling salesman for the Chicago straw works, killed himself in Pittsburg yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. Apparently under the influence of liquor, he boarded a wharf boat on the Monongahela river and shortly afterward, while brooding over his condition, ended his life.

Atwood, it is said, often remarked that he was unable to let liquor alone and probably he would commit suicide as the result of his drinking.

It is said that he was engaged to a girl in Woodlawn, who recently broke the engagement because of his appetite for liquor. He lived part of the time at the Colonial hotel in Woodlawn, but he had no definite place of residence. He is survived by his mother, who lives in Taylorville, Ill., a sister, who is the wife of a banker at the same place, and three brothers. One brother, Fred, who lives at 6437 Monrde avenue, is paying teller in the First National bank of this city.

Atwood had been at the Anderson hotel in Pittsbur for several days. His friends think disappointment in love may have hastened his self destruction. At the office of the firm by which he was employed he was spoken of as an excellent salesman. It was the theory of his employers that drink was the cause of his suicide.

UNION SLUGGERS' TRIAL BEGINS

Work of Getting Jury to Hear Case Against Men and Local Officials Started.

Three jurymen were accepted yesterday by the state in the trial of officials of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' local No. 4, and professional sluggers, who, at their bidding, assaulted Carl Carlstrom, nonunion man, who died later. The defense has not passed on the jurors, who are: Jacob L. Gange, a dry goods salesman; William A. McGraw, editor of the Railway Review; and James C. Sturgis, a grain dealer. The trial began in Judge Chetlain's court.

THERE'S A REASON
All right, but what is it?
DROP YOUR EYES.
A lady teacher in South Dakota says:
"I was compelled to give up teaching for nearly 4 years because of what the physicians called "nervous dyspepsia." Nor was I of any use in the household economy. I was in many respects a wreck.
"I had numerous physicians, one after another, and took many different kinds of medicine, but they did me no good.
"Finally, 5 years ago, I began to use Grape-Nuts food. I grew stronger in a very short time on the new diet, and was soon able to resume and am still teaching. I no longer use drugs of any kind, my dyspepsia has disappeared and I am a hearty woman—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Brain work and worry take strength from the stomach and bowels. They become too weak to handle the fried meat, eggs, bacon, coffee and white bread, so, partly digested they decay and cause all sorts of trouble which will become chronic if continued. Then the nerves and brain grow weary for they are deprived of the rebuilding elements the food must furnish to replace the soft gray filling of nerve centers and brain which is partly used up each day.
Now comes the mission of Grape-Nuts to supply the "Reason." Made in a peculiar and scientific way of the selected parts of Wheat and Barley, this famous food contains natural phosphate of potash with albumen which combines with water in the body and makes that gray matter quickly and surely. Then when nerves and brain feel the power of new made and properly made cells, the strength returns to stomach as well as other parts. "There's a reason." Anyone can prove it.

OTHER COMPANIES USED A. HAMILTON

Albany Lawyer Said to Have Handled Insurance Funds Besides New York Life's.

HOT ON BIG GRAFT TRAIL.

Legislative Inquisitors Believed to Be About to Uncover Great Scandal.

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The Armstrong legislative committee in following up two checks for $100,000 which the New York Life paid Andrew Hamilton will be on a sharp lookout for other trails leading in this account.

The committee has been informed that such trails necessarily need not be sought exclusively in the New York Life's books. Reports have reached the inquisitors that Hamilton has had connections with other insurance companies, and that not infrequently when the New York Life made payments to him they have put up like amounts.

Just at present, though, the committee's every effort is being directed toward unearthing all the facts in regard to the $100,000 payments of the New York Life in March, 1904. Subpoena servers are after officials of the State bank at Albany, if they have not landed them already. It is this bank which cashed the checks paid to Hamilton which were to be used ostensibly to purchase real estate in this city.

Not in Pursuit of Clew.

Counsel for the investigating committee also has asked the New York Life to furnish at Wednesday's hearing all the contracts or other papers of record relating to the purchase of property in the building of the annex to the home office. It was against this home office account that the $100,000 was charged on the company's books. By tracing the checks separately counsel for the committee, it is believed, if necessary, will be able to locate each payment definitely, thus showing the $100,000 payment to Hamilton finally does not belong to the real estate account. President McCall, however, has said that he will explain everything fully to the committee when he takes the stand.

Attorney Hughes today refused to discuss his plans for the hearing on Wednesday, but it is understood that George W. Perkins, the New York Life's vice president, will testify.

The committee regards Mr. Perkins, as a result of his frank avowal that the New York Life contributed to the campaign funds, as one of the best witnesses that have come before it. He is likely to be questioned about some of the things that concern the New York Life whether he is concerned personally in some of the transactions or not.

Look Into Big Harriman Loan.

It was said today that one of the things which Mr. Hughes probably would look into further in the New York Life was the loan in 1907 by the insurance company of $500,000 to Edward Harriman. This loan was renewed several times and carried on the books of the financial office at the Hanover Bank building. At the end of the year the New York Life reported its total outstanding collateral loans at $550,000. Mr. Hughes asked Mr. Perkins if the Harriman loan was included in this amount, and Mr. Perkins said he presumed it was. It is expected that Mr. Hughes will inquire further into this loan.

Chairman Paul Morton of the Equitable Life Insurance society announced in reply to questions this afternoon that no more money belonging to the Equitable policy holders would be turned over for campaign purposes. Mr. Morton was asked:

"Has the Equitable been contributing to the campaign funds like the New York Life?"

"I do not care to talk about the former policy of the company," said Mr. Morton.

"Will the company contribute to political campaign funds in the future?"

"I will not," said President Morton, emphatically.

These questions were put to Mr. Morton after the meeting of the Equitable's executive committee. Senator Chauncey M. Depew attended the meeting, and he was asked what he thought of the practice of political organizations accepting contributions from life insurance companies.

"Horrible Practice, Says Depew.

"I heartily am opposed to it," said he, solemnly. "I favor the English law, which not only requires the candidate to tell what he expends for electioneering purposes but also requires the campaign committees to disclose the source of their contributions."

Senator Depew was asked how much the Equitable contributed during the last three national campaigns, if any.

"I don't know the figures," was his reply.

"Did any of that mysterious $685,000 loan of the Equitable's officers go toward the state campaign funds?" he was asked.

"Oh, as I've said before, I'm not going to be interviewed," replied the senator.

"Besides," he added, "I don't know anything about that."

Odell in the Mixup?

Chairman Odell of the republican committee was down in the financial district today, but he denied that his visit had anything to do with insurance matters.

The investigating committee has not received any word definitely from James H. Hyde that he will appear before it, although an attempt has been made to get a promise.

The committee is confident Hyde will appear when he is wanted. He is about the only person from whom the committee has much hope of getting the facts in regard to the $150,000 blind loan. It was said today that William Nelson Cromwell, James W. Alexander's counsel, had been made custodian of the vouchers and papers of record of these loan transactions, but this was denied by persons close to Mr. Cromwell.

CIRCUS TENT FALLS DOWN; 50 ARE INJURED, 3 FATALLY.

Big Canvas of Ringling Bros.' Main Show Collapses on 5,000 People—Panic Approaches a Catastrophe.

Marysville, Mo., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Amid the roaring of the lions and the shrieks, yells, trumpetings, and varied calls of hundreds of wild animals the great main tent of the Ringling circus came down this afternoon during a terrific storm.

Five thousand persons were buried under both the great canvas, dozens were struck by falling poles and seats, and half a hundred men were injured. Of these three were hurt fatally, while more than a score of others have serious injuries, such as broken legs and arms, lacerated faces, wrenched backs, and so forth.

The Fatally Injured.

BOOTH, E., Marysville, farmer; back broken.
BOYD, GEORGE, Gravity, Ia.; concussion of the brain.
ROBINSON, Charles, aged 28, son of P. E. Robinson, editor of Marysville Republican; skull fractured.

The performance was in full blast when the storm came up. Without warning the great center pole of the main tent tottered and came down, bringing with it all the other poles and canvas.

Those nearest the aisles and exits started to run and in the panic knocked down women and children, separated mothers from babes, and made the confusion worse than ever.

Twenty cages filled with wild animals were overturned in the midst of the crowd and the most added chaos and terror to the situation. Meanwhile a drenching rain poured down.

WILD TALE OF ADVENTURE

AMERICAN BACK FROM CANAL ZONE TELLS OF TRIALS.

Frederick E. Walker, Employed by Mining Company, Says Struggle Against Odds Began in 1901—Arrested Number of Times and Incarcerated in Different Prisons—Will Be Examined as to Sanity, According to Friends Who Met Him.

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Frederick E. Walker, who has been representing the San Pablo Mining Company of Pontiac, Mich., on the isthmus of Panama, returned today aboard the steamship Allianca with an incoherent story of his adventures. He is accompanied by Sergeant Pilser of the canal zone police.

Two friends who met Walker at the dock say he will be examined as to his sanity. He said he had struck rich copper mines in Panama and had arranged for concessions when the alcalde tore down the fences about the mining land and tried to arrest him. He drove off soldiers, took the alcalde's revolvers from him, locked him in his own house, and escaped. He says he was imprisoned six times in six separate prisons for his attack on the alcalde, also that he was robbed of $5,000 in gold by a Chinese coolie, whom he captured after a chase lasting over a hundred days.

Both Fact and Fiction.

Walker's friends say his stories are mingling fact and fiction.

Walker said his struggle against odds began in 1901, when he first went to Colombia to look after his interests. As there was no steamer to take him direct to his destination Walker hired a British sloop. While sailing on this ship a Chinese-Filipino, one of the crew, stole his papers and cashbox and made off with them.

Last spring he says he found that part of a mine known as the Old Auberette, which had been covered by a landslide, and that there was copper ore near this landslide. He then went to the alcalde, or mayor, at Canazas, to file his proof of finding copper, but the alcalde refused to recognize the proofs, claiming others were ahead of his, and detained him there for seventeen days. Then he says the alcalde built a fence about part of the property, which, upon his return, Walker tore down and threw into the street.

Tells of Escape and Capture.

Continuing he said:

"The alcalde sent two men to arrest me. I pretended to get ready to go, and while saddling my horse drew two revolvers and stood them off.

"Later I went to the alcalde's office and asked him what he wanted. He told me I was under arrest, and at this announcement two soldiers appeared in the doorway. I pulled my two revolvers, made the soldiers give up their guns, and then, putting the alcalde aside, made my escape. Finally I was arrested in Panama and was turned over to the police."

CAPTAIN YOUNG ON TRIAL; EXPERTS ARE EXCLUDED.

Commander of Bennington Made Defendant in Court Martial in Investigation of Explosion Disaster.

Mare Island, Cal., Sept. 18.—The court martial of Commander Lucien Young, who was in command of the United States gunboat Bennington when the boilers of that vessel exploded in San Diego harbor last month, convened today. Commander Young, Judge Gear, his attorney, and the full board, were present.

Naval Constructor Holden Evans was in the room and this gave rise to the question of the exclusion of naval experts. After consulting the rules and regulations Rear Admiral Glass decided that Constructor Evans must retire. The charges and specifications were read and Commander Young pleaded not guilty to each of the six charges.

Lieut. Yates of the Bennington called as the first witness, was not present, so Ernest E. West, the judge advocate, was called and deposed that he was custodian of the logs of the Bennington, at Washington, D. C. West produced the logs for the last days of the months of November and December, 1904, and said that for the first six months of this year the logs were not filled out under the signature of Commander Lucien Young.

WOMAN'S PERFIDY RESULTS IN THE DEATH OF TWO MEN.

Husband and Man for Whom He Was Forsaken Killed in Melee Which Followed Her Return to Father's Home.

Roscommon, Mich., Sept. 18.—Two men were killed yesterday near Houghton lake, twenty-five miles from here, as a result of Mrs. Kate Ogden's perfidy to her husband. Last winter Mrs. Ogden and Henry Knight, a neighbor, eloped and went west together.

Mrs. Ogden tired of Knight and returned to her father's home last week. Knight followed her and made threats against the woman and her family.

Sunday morning Mrs. Ogden met her husband, Frederick Ogden, driving, and persuaded him to ride to her father's house with her. As they drove into the yard Knight opened fire on them from across the road, wounding Mrs. Ogden in the hand and killing Ogden.

The shots brought Mrs. Ogden's father, William Ruperd, who ran into his house for a rifle and from a window fired two bullets into Knight's body, killing him.

QUAKER CITS NAME DELEGATES.

Philadelphia Reform Party Selects Men Who Will Nominate Candidates to Oppose Ringsters.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 18.—The city party, the reform body which is opposed to the regular organization of this city, and the democrats held their primary elections tonight to select delegates who will nominate the county tickets in opposition to the republicans. Delegates were elected in nearly every division of Philadelphia by the cits, and they will meet in convention on Wednesday morning to nominate candidates for coroner, sheriff, and city commissioners. They will be uninstructed.

The delegates elected to the democratic convention, which will be held Wednesday night, are all unpledged. Some of the democratic leaders are opposed to placing a ticket in the field, but favor the indorsement of the ticket to be named by the city party.

The republican city committee at its meeting today decided to wage a most active campaign for the election of the ticked named last Saturday. The candidates and other speakers will visit every one of the forty-two wards in the city and make addresses. It is probable that Mayor Weaver will take the stump in the interest of the party candidates.

Mr. Roosevelt Announces His Intention to Visit New Orleans as Planned, Despite Prevalence of Yellow Fever.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 18.—President Roosevelt's telegram to Mayor Behrman today, announcing his intention to come here as planned on Oct. 24, despite the prevalence of the yellow fever epidemic, has been received with enthusiasm.

There is no doubt of the widespread desire here to reciprocate the president's acceptance, but Mayor Behrman will be unable to make a reply until he has considered the whole subject of quarantines with the local committee in charge of reception of the president and with Gov. Blanchard, who is representing the state in the matter.

Conferences proceeded throughout the day in the effort to settle the teamsters' strike, which, if protracted, would mean serious losses. Little cotton is moving now.

Thirty-four new cases and six new deaths were reported in New Orleans today.

CLERK IS SHORT $20,000.

WASHINGTON EMPLOYE ADMITS EMBEZZLING PUBLIC FUNDS.

James W. Boyd of Health and Marine Hospital Service Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by His Superior Officer—Financial Irregularities Cover Period of Three Years—Discrepancies Revealed by Inquiry During Absence on Account of Illness.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—James W. Boyd, a clerk in the public health and marine hospital service, was arrested today on a warrant sworn out by Chief Clerk W. P. Worcester of that office, charging him with embezzlement.

The discovery of facts leading to the charge was made last Thursday in Boyd's absence, and the amount abstracted will, according to Boyd's own confession, reach not less than $20,000.

Manipulated the Bills.

It was Boyd's duty to prepare bills for the approval of the surgeon general, and when checks were signed they were delivered to him to be mailed to the persons for whom they were intended. It is charged that he manipulated the bills by erasing the dates and amounts of duplicates left in the office, and that he secured the money by indorsing on the checks the names of the firms to which they were issued.

The alleged defalcation has been in progress for the last three years, but Boyd was not suspected until a recent illness compelled him to be absent and made it necessary for some one else to assume his duties. When his desk was opened a number of suspicious documents were found. This discovery led to an investigation by Surgeon General Wyman and Chief Clerk Worcester, with the result that the case was placed in the hands of the secret service operatives, who made the arrest. Property belonging to Boyd valued at about $8,000 has been seized.

In Service Twelve Years.

Boyd had been in the public health service for about twelve years, and was appointed from Westchester county, N. Y. He was well known about town, and especially so because of his pronounced fondness for automobiling. He was drawing a salary of $1,800 a year. His family is said to be traveling in Europe.

When taken before United States Commissioner Taylor Boyd waived a hearing and was released in $10,000 bail, a guaranty company going on his bond.

CORBIN URGES SIMPLE LIFE FOR YOUNG ARMY OFFICERS.

Declares That Those Who Seek Luxurious Environment Should Separate Themselves from Service.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—Only the "simple life" is possible for young army officers, according to Maj. Gen. Corbin, commanding the Philippines division. In his annual report Gen. Corbin says there is too frequently evidence that there are officers in the service not mindful of their financial obligations. The number of complaints on this point, he says, calls for drastic treatment. The general then lays down these principles:

"The moment an officer begins living beyond his means he should be subjected to discipline. Young officers joining the service should be admonished that for them only the simple life is possible. The moment an officer is possessed with an uncontrollable desire for any other life he, as a duty to himself as well as to his regiment, should separate himself from the service and enter the fields in which the material rewards admit of more luxurious living."

Brig. Gen. Lee, commanding the department of Texas, is positively in favor of the reestablishment of the army canteen. He says that 80 per cent of the soldiers drink stimulants. A majority drink beer and light wines, while a minority drink strong liquors, but only a small percentage drink to excess.

NATIONALS TAKE AN EASY GAME.

Win from St. Louis, 4 to 2; Lundgren Pitching Well in Close Places.

TWO MEN ARE INJURED.

Dunleavy and Lobert Collide at Third, the Former Going to the Hospital.

Carl Lundgren pitched the Third Nationals to victory in the final game of the series against the St. Louis cardinals at the west side grounds yesterday afternoon. The score at the end was 4 to 2, but the figures make the game look closer than it really was. Chance's men were out after revenge as a result of their narrow escape on Sunday, and played real baseball all the way. While two black marks were charged to Lundgren, they came at a time when they did not harm.

An accident in the third inning put one player out of commission and crippled another for several minutes. It necessitated a trip to the hospital for Dunleavy, the cardinal right fielder, who may not be able to play for several days.

Bad Collision at Third.

The accident occurred in the third inning. Dunleavy was on second base and started for third, when Smoot banged a hard grounder at Lundgren. Carl shot the ball to Lobert, and Dunleavy was chased back and forth between the bases. Finally he made a dash for third just as Lobert caught the ball. The two came together hard, and the cardinal reached the base, the ball dropping from Lobert's hands. The bump brought the blood from Lobert's face in a stream, while Dunleavy's chin was so badly gashed that four stitches were required to sew up the wound. Besides this four of his teeth were knocked out. Lobert received a bad cut over the left eye, but stuck pluckily to the game.

After the accident Shannon went to left field, while Himes, the cardinal's recruit from Cedar Rapids, was switched from that garden to right. Lobert played brilliant ball to the end of the contest.

Lundgren in Good Form.

It was Lundgren against Thielman on the slab, and as far as hits went there was little to choose, but Lundgren outpitched his rival at all stages and did his best work while in a hole. In four different innings—the first, third, sixth, and seventh—the crowd from the other end of the drainage canal was in position to score runs on any old kind of a wallop, but Carl settled and pulled out of danger. In the meantime the Third Nationals landed on Thielman at the right time and runs resulted.

Two were gone in the third when Lobert singled to right and stole second, scoring on a single to left by Chance, who was nailed a moment later trying to steal second. The fourth saw Chance's men increase their lead, when a safety by Tinker, an out, and Evers' single sent Tinker scampering over the pan.

Put Stamp on the Victory.

The Third Nationals put the game beyond reach the cardinals in the next round, when two runs were registered. Lundgren started the good work with a triple far out to center. Slagle was a dead "rabbit," but a moment later Lobert banged the ball to Arndt, who picked it up cleanly and then made a bad throw to the plate, Lundgren counting. Chance fouled out to Leahy, and Lobert purloined second, coming to the counting station when Schulte rapped to left. It looked as though Lundgren when Tinker walked and with Schulte pulled off a double steal of second and third, but Maloney dumped a grounder to Beckley, stopping the run.

Cardinals' Tardy Rally.

There was nothing much doing after this until the ninth, when the cardinals made things interesting for a short time. After Leahy was passed, McBride fanned for the third time. Then Thielman distinguished himself with a good rap to center, sending Leahy around to third, from where he scored on Shannon's out. Himes pumped a grounder down to Tinker, but Joe fumbled it, and Thielman came home. Smoot's little smash down to Lobert forced Himes at second, and that ended it. Score:

Notes of National Game.

Each team sacrificed twice in the first inning.

Maloney and Lobert earned the honors for brilliant fielding. Maloney pulled off a circus catch of a short fly in the first inning, getting it while going at top speed. Lobert's all around playing was the real thing, and he gobbled up everything that came his way.

President Hart announced yesterday that 1,800 tickets had been sold out of town for the benefit of Frank Selee on Sunday. About 250 probably will see the game are DeWolf Hopper, John L. Taylor, owner of the Boston Americans; Clark Griffith, Garry Herrmann, James McAleer, A. J. Reach, and Hugh Duffy with the entire team of Phillies.

The first inning of the Third Nationals practically was a repetition of that of the visitors, a queer coincidence, when the fact is taken into consideration that five men on each side faced the pitcher. The first man up on each side walked. The second sacrificed, and both were safe on errors; the third sacrificed, sending the two runners around to second and third, where they were left when the fourth and fifth men up sent flies to right field. Incidently, both right fielders on the first fly threw to the plate, and neither base runner made an attempt to score on the out.

SHARP DENIAL FROM MR. HART.

Local Official Says He Was Observing Rules by Playing Sunday's Double Header.

President James A. Hart yesterday denied the charge emanating from American league sources that he had violated an agreement existing between the two big leagues by playing a double header on Sunday at his west side grounds in conflict with the White Sox-Cleveland game on the south side.

"I broke no law," said Mr. Hart. "The constitution of the National league made it obligatory for us to play that other game with St. Louis. Two games were scheduled for Saturday at St. Louis and rain interfered. The edict was commandatory to us to play. It was not a 'moved up' game. It had to be played.

"As for Secretary Barnard of the Cleveland club saying Comiskey should protest to ascertain if the agreement with the National league was binding relative to double headers, I would like to be informed on that point. Mr. Barnard is the official excuse maker of the Cleveland club. It is his business to tell the public how crippled the club is when it loses, because Lajoie is not in the game, and how great is his club when it wins. When it comes to baseball he is up in the air—technical points shoot over him. When he says James A. Hart broke any agreement or set a precedent by playing that double header, he speaks without the truth. The Chicago club simply did what the constitution of the National league commanded it to do."

Philadelphia Game Postponed.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 18.—The New York-Philadelphia National league game was postponed on account of rain.

REDS FACE COUNTRY BUTCHER.

Pitcher Darrah at Kankakee Holds the Cincinnati Team to One Run in Eleven Innings.

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Sylvester Darrah, who conducts a meat market in the little town of Atwood, pitching for the Kankakee browns, proved the sensation of an exhibition game here today with the Cincinnati Nationals, when it required twelve innings for the leaguers to defeat the local team, 3 to 1. Steinfeldt brought in the winning run by a three bagger to left field.

Darrah struck out ten men, gave only one base on balls, and kept the twelve hits fairly well scattered. An immense crowd which witnessed the game freely jollied the Cincinnatis at their failure to connect with the delivery of Darrah at opportune times.

The locals played a fast, snappy game, hustling the leaguers all the route. Van Winkle and Walker officiated for the visitors. Seven hits were secured by the locals. Manager Bancroft will pitch Overall against the Chicagos tomorrow. Score:

MARATHON RUNNERS PRACTICE.

Timblin, the High School Lad, Has Fast Workout—Louis Marks Arrives.

The runners entered in the Marathon race of the Illinois Athletic club, which is to be contested over the local boulevards on Saturday, are rapidly rounding into shape, and should give a good exhibition in the long distance event.

W. S. Timblin, the McKinley High school boy, yesterday ran the northern half of the course from the Evanston Golf club to Lincoln Park, a distance of twelve miles, in 1:12.

Louis Marks of the Mohawk A. C. club was the first of the eastern runners to appear, arriving yesterday, and going over the course immediately. He promises it to be the best he ever has seen.

Rhud Metzner, who will represent the L. A. C. in the event, reports he is in the best of shape and confident of winning a place, while E. V. Bohman is being backed by every employe of the Chicago postoffice to show in the event.

The members of the club are coming to the front liberally with offers of automobiles to accompany the runners in the race. The medals arrived yesterday, and are said to be the handsomest ever offered by any athletic club.

WHITE SOX LOSE TO TAILENDERS.

St. Louis Browns Down Comiskey's Men by Good Pitching of Sudhoff, 3 to 2.

WHITE IS THE VICTIM.

Dentist Twirler Is Batted Hard Enough in Five Innings to Drop the Game.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The tailenders put one over on Comiskey's pennant hopefuls here today when the browns beat the White Sox 3 to 2.

Willie Sudhoff fooled the Chicago batsmen all the way, only six hits being made off him, and these were kept well scattered. But the timidity of George Rohe on the bases and the successful working of a time worn bluff on him by Gleason lost Chicago a run in the seventh that might have saved the game.

Rohe was on second when Jones singled to center. Gleason made believe he was in the act of catching the ball on the throw in, and Rohe stopped in spite of the coacher's shouts to "play safe." By the time he saw through the fake it was too late to remedy the blunder. Two were gone and Isbell forced Jones at second.

Nearly Win in Eighth.

The "wee one" grew careless in the eighth and passed three men in a row, after Donohue had reached first on a fit, forcing "Jiggs" over the plate, and came near handing the game away, but McFarland, sent to bat for White, was fooled on three wide ones and fanned. There were two gone at the time and the last chance went glimmering.

Harry White, the pride of Georgetown, began the battle for Chicago. The browns connected with him right from the start and won the game in the first five innings with their bats.

Browns Pound White.

In the second Gleason led off for St. Louis and Koehler sacrificed. "Hard Luck" Joe Sugden swung on one and it fouled off, rapping him above the eye, causing his retirement. Roth succeeding him. He fanned. Sudhoff singled to center but Fielder Jones' perfect throw stopped Gleason at third. Stone tore a drive to left that raised the chalk dust on the foul line, giving him two corners and counting Gleason. Rockenfield was easy.

Sudhoff brought home the second run with his second single of the game, Koehler having reached first on a pass, stole to second and taken third on Fielder Jones' sacrifice bunt. Willie's single brought him home. The third and decisive run was scored on a long single by Roth, Tom Jones' having reached second previous to it, because Rohe's throw of Gleason's bunt was a fraction of a second behind the runner.

One More Run for the Sox.

Chicago looked like a real contender in the eighth, having scored one run in the fourth through Isbell's pretty double and Green's single, for Sudhoff appeared to be "going up." Two were out when Donohue cracked a single to center. Green's pass put him on second and when Sudhoff threw wild to nip Donohue off the base he raced to third. This upset Willie and he issued passes to Rohe and Sullivan, forcing Donohue home. Jones saw a chance to win and hustled McFarland to bat for White, but three wide curves fooled "Mac," for he bit on all of them and fanned. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Sudhoff used the eel ball a good bit.

The defeat lost the Sox a chance to climb a little nearer the Athletics.

Chicago plays here tomorrow, then starts east, stopping off in Cleveland on Wednesday for one game.

Rohe felt much chagrined over his blunder in the seventh and it is safe to say he will not be caught on that trick again.

SENATORS AND BOSTON DIVIDE.

Each Wins a Game of a Double Header Played in the National Capital.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—Washington and Boston broke even in the double header here today, the locals winning the first game through timely hitting 4 to 2, while in the second went to the visitors 16 to 3. In the second game Adams was batted out of the box after serving two innings, and Jacobsen was hit almost at will. The feature of both games was the fielding of Nill and Anderson. Umpire Hurst failed to reach the grounds in time for the first game, and Kittredge and Winter served satisfactorily. Scores:

"BACK TO FUSION" SLOGAN OF "CITS."

City Committee of New York Organization Votes Unanimously to Return.

TUNNEL CRASH HURTS 12.

Parlor Car Leaves Track and Is Raked by Large Supporting Pillars.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Sept. 18.

By what was a practically unanimous vote, because no negatives were heard, the city committee of the Citizens' union tonight decided the organization "should go back to the fusion movement." There is little probability, however, that the sentiment expressed at the meeting will be carried out if Chairman R. Fulton Cutting has his way.

"Cits" Decide to Go Back to Fusion.

The majority of those present consisted of Cutting's friends, who turned up in force to prevent any humiliation of Cutting by the radical element which had called the special meeting. While they consented to adopt a formal resolution in favor of fusion, they dented the manner in which the resumption of conferences by the union with the Odell-Platt forces should be left to Cutting and the personal committee of sixteen, who left the fusion conference last week.

What this committee is likely to do can best be deduced from what Cutting said at the close of the meeting. It is this:

"The resolution which was adopted simply was an expression of sentiment. Of course we favor fusion and we always have, but we still are out of the fusion movement, which we left last week. I don't understand that the resolution adopted tonight was a direction that we should go back to that movement. That is a matter which must be left to the special committee of sixteen."

A parlor car in the middle of train 54, New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was derailed at the Park avenue tunnel on the outbound trip from Grand Central station today and twelve passengers were hurt, but none seriously. The train had three parlor cars sandwiched in the middle. One of these left the tracks at the mouth of the tunnel at Fifty-sixth street.

Car Jumps Track in Tunnel; Twelve Hurt.

The rear truck took the switch to the eastward and jumped it, derailing this one car and throwing the forward part to the west against the iron columns that support the roof of the tunnel. The row of columns for fifty feet raked the west side of the car, battering the roof woodwork and smashing every window on that side.

Passengers who had chairs on that side jumped to the east side of the car. Several chairs were torn from their fastenings. The air was felt all through the train, and Engineer Reed put on air brakes. The train stopped and the passengers of all the cars tried to scramble out. Some alighted, but most of them were held in by the train crew.

All the injured were put in the next car, and that section of the train was uncoupled and pulled back into the station. The first four cars were sent on their way to Boston. Traffic was held up about three hours.

The police of the Bronx are certain that Joseph Girard, a coal driver, knows something of the murder of Gussie Pfeiffer, the young woman whose body was found in a thicket on Pelham road on Saturday. Detectives are watching every exit from New York for fear he may run away. When the clew was found pointing to him every one believed the case was cleared up, but discoveries today have only deepened the mystery.

Seek Coal Driver as Slayer of Sweetheart.

Not only is the crime itself curious, but the evidence is so conflicting no one has been able to say what happened to Gussie Pfeiffer. The girl's body was found in sight of the path traversed by many people. Doctors said she had been dead only twelve hours.

Girard, her sweetheart, admits he came home with bloody clothes on Wednesday and disappeared Thursday morning. It is impossible the girl could have been murdered Wednesday night and lain so long, doctors say, without the body showing evidences of it.

The only way to account for the apparent contradiction is that the girl lay in a comatose condition in a secluded place, and then was dragged out to the place where the body was found.

It turns out that, after all, Baron Komura, the Japanese envoy who is ill at the Waldorf Astoria, has typhoid fever. His physicians agreed on the diagnosis today, but said it was a mild case of typhoid. This final diagnosis may alter the plan to start westward with the baron on Oct. 2.

Finally Decide What Ails Baron Komura.

Mr. Sato, the baron's secretary, announced the decision of the physicians in this bulletin, given out tonight:

"The physicians in attendance upon Baron Komura met in conference this afternoon with Dr. Suzuki, the surgeon general of the Japanese navy. They pronounced Baron Komura's condition satisfactory in every respect and they expect an uninterrupted convalescence. The diagnosis of mild, irregular fever was agreed upon."

A reward of $1,000 was offered today by the New York Times for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers of Jacob H. Thompson, the exchange editor of that paper, who was fatally assaulted the evening of Sept. 7 in his room at the Hotel St. James. The police were convinced that Mr. Thompson was murdered, and that the motive of the crime was robbery. An examination of the box in which Mr. Thompson kept his valuables in a safety deposit vault showed that his watch and about $700 in cash, which he was known to have had in his possession, and which, it was thought, he might have placed in the box, are missing.

Reward of $1,000 for Editor's Slayers.

Raphael Hawaweeney, said to be a clergyman in the Greek church in Brooklyn, was arrested tonight with six other men and held without bail for inciting a riot. The trouble grew out of articles published in a Syrian paper, to which the clergyman and his followers objected. Tonight Hawaweeney and twenty others called at the editor's house. The riot followed, during which a score of shots were fired and one man was wounded in the leg.

Reputed Slayer of Custer Is Dead.

RAIN-IN-THE-FACE.

Aberdeen, S. D., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Rain in the Face, the Sioux Indian chief who is reputed to have killed Gen. Custer at the battle of the Little Big Horn in June, 1876, died today at the Bullhead station, Standing Rock reservation, N. D., in his sixty-third year.

His reputed deeds during the Custer massacre had made Rain in the Face an important historical character. He was declared to have joined Sitting Bull's hostile band two years before the fight for the purpose of killing Gen. Custer and carrying away the heart of Col. Tom Custer, brother of the general.

This hatred of the Custer brothers harked back to the murder of an army surgeon and a trader when they stopped to water their horses on the Red river in 1873. A scout in the fall of 1874 brought word that Rain in the Face did the murder to Gen. Custer at Fort Lincoln, and Col. Tom Custer went to the Standing Rock reservation and took the chief a prisoner.

The chief was confined to the guardhouse after having boastfully confessed the crime. Winter came, and Rain in the Face lay upon the floor, without as much as a blanket to cover him, and at times the snow would drift in inches deep. It was in this miserable prison that he first conceived the intense hatred he bore both the general and his brother.

In the spring of 1875 he escaped and at once joined Sitting Bull. Whether he personally secured vengeance on the Custers in the massacre of June 26, 1876, is a disputed question. He boasted that he had killed them both and had "cut the heart out of Col. Custer." In his later years, however, he was not so positive about it.

Rain in the Face was one of six brothers, a fullblooded Unkpaha Sioux, and of great physical prowess.

MISSOURI FLOOD SWEPT

TWELVE PERSONS ARE SAID TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED.

Rivulets Become Raging Torrents a Mile Wide — Central Missouri Towns Are Cut Off, Many Having Received No Mail for Three Days, and Prospects Are Dark for Relief —Railroad Traffic Between Kansas City and St. Louis Cut Off.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—One of the worst floods in Missouri at this season of the year is now raging through the Missouri river bottoms. In places twelve inches of rain has fallen in the last three or four days. All streams and rivers are out of their banks, and some, not more than a few yards wide, are now raging floods, from one to three miles wide.

Thousands of acres of corn land are under water and farmers will suffer a tremendous loss. Hundreds of head of live stock have been drowned.

Twelve persons have lost their lives.

Many Steel Bridges Washed Out.

The loss to railroads is enormous. Miles of track are washed away, and dozens of steel bridges are swept out, as well as hundreds of smaller bridges and culverts. Railroad traffic in central Missouri is paralyzed, and there is no longer direct communication between St. Louis and Kansas City by rail.

Central Missouri towns have had no mail for three days, and there is slight prospect they will get any tomorrow or the next day. The Missouri Pacific and Missouri, Kansas and Texas have run no trains over their tracks between St. Louis and Kansas City since Saturday morning, and the Wabash and Alton have been forced practically to abandon operations today.

The only means of communication remaining between the two cities is by a roundabout way.

St. Louis Supplies Swept Away.

On the issuance by the weather bureau last night of a special danger bulletin, large numbers of workmen were employed on the levee moving back the merchandise during the night and all day today. Large stores of lumber and other merchandise were swept away. Barrels of apples, bales of cotton, baskets of vegetables, and thousands of feet of lumber went down the river today at the rate of ten miles an hour.

Thousands of acres in the vicinity of St. Louis already are under water, and the worst is not yet come.

OBITUARY.

MAYOR PATRICK COLLINS was buried from the Roman Catholic cethedral of the Holy Cross in Boston, Mass., in the presence of an assemblage that crowded the great edifice during a requiem high mass, celebrated by Archbishop Williams. Within the sanctuary were a large number of high dignitaries of the Catholic church and about 150 priests. Business generally was suspended throughout the city during the period of the services, while the municipal offices, courts, and schools were closed for the day. The body was taken to Holyhood cemetery at Brookline and laid in a grave adjoining that of John Boyle O'Reilly, the poet, who was a close friend of Mr. Collins.

HITS INSURANCE FIRMS

APPELLATE COURT UPHOLDS RATE CONSPIRACY CHARGE.

Clinton County Case, Involving 110 Companies, Which Had Been Dismissed in and Appealed from Circuit Court, Is Remanded with Instructions to Overrule Former Decision—Concerns Accused of Entering Agreement to Kill Competition.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The charge that 110 fire insurance companies represented by one agent had illegally destroyed competition by forming an agreement on rates was sustained by an Appellate court decision filed today. The suit was remanded to the Clinton county Circuit court with instructions to overrule the companies' demurrer which had been sustained there and the case dismissed. The case is that of the people versus the Aachen and Munich Fire Insurance company of Germany.

The case was brought by former Attorney General Hmlin, and was an injunction filed in chancery against 110 fire insurance companies, and also against M. F. Zent, their agent. The information charges that these companies, having for more than a year prior to the filing of the bill, carried on business in St. Clair, Madison, and Clinton counties formerly, separately fixed the rates, but that now they have illegally conspired to do away with competition and have selected M. F. Zent as common agent.

It is alleged he has power to fix the rate, which has been advanced from 10 to 25 per cent, and abolished all competition in insurance, contrary to law.

Every company violating the agreement forfeits $10,000. A temporary injunction was asked by Mr. Hamlin, and the defendants filed a demurrer, which the court sustained, and ordered the suit dismissed. The case was then taken to the Appellate court. The hearing was in the February term.

Justice Creighton delivered the opinion, holding that a combination to prevent competition is a common law conspiracy, and that the business of insurance is a public necessity and is stamped with a public interest.

HEAD OF AUTO COMPANY DIES.

Jay Dixon Chappell's Life Is Ended by Tonsilitis After Illness of Only Four Days.

Jay Dixon Chappell, president of the Woods Motor Vehicle company, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 3657 Michigan avenue. He had been ill with tonsilitis for only four days and his condition was not considered serious. Just before his death, however, he said he felt an increased swelling in his throat, and a moment later he died. Mr. Chappell, who was 30 years old, was a son of the late Charles H. Chappell. His mother, who has been in Paris for several months, was notified of the death. Mr. Chappell was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Washington Park club, and the Midlothian club. He recently had returned from a fishing trip and appeared to be in the best of health. He was born in Sedalia, Mo., but had lived in Chicago for twenty years. He is survived by his widow. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence.

GERMANY COURTS AMERICAN TRADE

Diplomats Display Anxiety Concerning Proposed Reciprocity Treaty.

DECLARE SISTER FEELING

Prussians in Banquet to United States Consul Bid for Commercial Combine.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—A farewell dinner by the American Association of Commerce and Trade, in Berlin, was given at the Hotel Kaiserhof tonight to Frank H. Mason, the retiring American consul general here, who is to succeed John K. Gowdy as consul general at Paris. All the prominent members of the American colony and numerous representatives of German commercial interests were present. Many American consuls in Germany, on behalf of whom Frank S. Hannah, consul at Magdeburg, presented Mr. Mason with a silver loving cup, also attended. A handsome testimonial of regard was also given Mr. Mason on behalf of many of his Berlin friends, by F. Hessenberg.

Charlemagne Tower, the American ambassador, presided. He proposed the health of President Roosevelt and then that of Emperor William and the members of the imperial family.

Director von Koerner, head of the department of foreign commerce in the foreign office, who was delegated to represent the imperial government, made the first address. He said that the relations between Germany and the United States were manifold and rested on a firm basis. No two countries in the world, he added, had made such progress in the last few decades.

Belong Together Economically.

Privy Councilor Goldberger, who is one of the close advisers of the German government in commercial matters and the author of a book on the United States entitled "The Land of Unlimited Possibilities," insisted that the United States and Germany belonged together economically; each supplementing the other. He dismissed the idea of any militant customs policy, which, he said, could only please the commercial rivals of both countries.

He admitted that the majority of the American people desired at the present time to maintain the high protective tariff and were opposed to commercial treaties, with unconditional most favored nation treatment, for long periods. Germany, on the other hand, as a consequence of its present commercial policy, must terminate its existing agreement with the United States. Otherwise it would be quitting the paths of its commercial policy as already constitutionally determined on, and would be acting contrary to the spirit, if not the text, of the treaties already concluded with seven European countries.

Herr Goldberger pleaded for a reciprocity treaty in the sense of President McKinley's last political utterance, but said that so far as possible equivalent advantages must be given.

Time Ripe for Treaty.

Ambassador Tower, after dwelling at length on the personal aspects of Consul General Mason's departure, said:

"The present time is most favorable for the purpose of commercial intercourse, because there is a strong interest felt in Germany in the affairs of the United States. It is a growing and friendly interest, constantly tending toward sympathy with the United States and to a good understanding. The relations of the two countries have never been as good as now."

Mr. Mason said that the present harmony in the commercial relations of Germany and the United States was creditable and profitable to both countries, and how to preserve it was a subject near to the hearts of all present. The speaker continued:

"The problem is a complex and serious one, and let us frankly recognize its difficulties. Its solution will probably involve concessions on both sides which may be difficult, especially on the part of our government, to harmonize with existing laws and established economical principles; but we all hope that, with patience and good will on both sides, a satisfactory arrangement ultimately can be reached."

MORE ANTI-PEACE MEETINGS.

Japanese Divided in Attitude Toward Settlement, but Violence Is Curbed.

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—Anti-peace treaty demonstrations continue to be held in different localities, the meetings passing condemnatory resolutions, but there has been no further violence. The members of the progressive party are united, but the constitutionalists are divided in their attitude toward the peace settlement, some branches having passed resolutions contradictory of the pro-government statement of its terms.

Taft Assures Roosevelt.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 18.—Secretary Taft in a cablegram from Tokio has conveyed to the president the assurances of the Japanese government, given to him personally, that the recent riots in Japan were not anti-American demonstrations. Secretary Taft says the rioting has subsided, and that the members of his party have not been subjected to the least indignity. He expresses confidence that the friendship of Japan for America is abiding.

French Correspondent Accused of Fake Interview with President Declares Latter Was Not Misquoted.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Paul Lagardere, the correspondent of the Petit Parisienne, who arrived today at Cherbourg on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II., said regarding President Roosevelt's denial of Lagardere's alleged interview with him at Oyster Bay:

"On my arrival I received a communication denying the interview I sent from New York.

"I affirm most formally that I, in that telegram, faithfully reported the words of the president of the United States. I furthermore reserve the right to prove, at the proper time, how and under what conditions I had the said interview."

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

PARIS—Franco-German negotiations relative to the Moroccan conference again have taken an unfavorable turn, causing anxiety in official and diplomatic circles and renewing the depression on the bourse. Both parties are willing to accept Algeciras, Spain, as the place of conference.

VIENNA—Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago in an address before the international congress of insurance laborers said the level of insurance laborers in the United States was not so high as in some European countries.

SEOUL—The imperial chamberlain is busily preparing the palace building to receive Miss Roosevelt on Tuesday. The government offices are being decorated and the long neglected streets are being cleaned.

BERLIN—There were ten fresh cases of cholera and five deaths from noon Saturday to noon Sunday and three new cases and one death from noon Sunday to date, making the totals 202 cases and 77 deaths.

TIFLIS—A mob of 2,000 persons attacked a mail train at the Abasha station and detached the engine. The troops and police fired and drove off the rioters, who had killed or wounded many.

LONDON—The report from Halifax that the British squadron, in command of Prince Louis of Battenberg, would not visit the United States is denied.

In order to accommodate the increasing travel on "The Pennsylvania Special"—the eighteen hour train Chicago to New York, which leaves Chicago every day at 2:45 p. m., it has been found necessary to add on an additional sleeper to the train.

Conference Between Delegates at Karlstad Assumes New Phase, According to Reports at Stockholm—Certain Points in Dispute Submitted to a Subcommittee—Contradictory Reports as to Mobilization of Norwegian Army.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Stockholm correspondent of the Daily Mail says that, notwithstanding calming statements, the situations continues extremely grave. The negotiations have assumed a new phase. Premier Lunberg has strongly remonstrated against Norway's continued warlike preparations. The correspondent claims that despite official denials the entire Norwegian army now is mobilized, even Norwegian reporters leaving Karlstad to join the army. New defenses are being constructed on the frontier.

The Standard, on the other hand, strongly reaffirms that a practical agreement has been reached on all serious points, only a few minor points awaiting adjustment. These have been accepted in principle.

Still Discussing Terms.

KARLSTAD, Sweden, Sept. 18.—The Norwegian and Swedish delegates wer in conference for two hours and a half today and adjourned to meet when an agreement is reached on certain points submitted to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Lundeberg, Michelsen, Hammerskjold and Loveland.

A certain element in Norway is opposing the proposed terms of agreement, thus placing difficulty in the way of the delegates.

It is understood that as a basis of the agreement Sweden has promised to sign an arbitration treaty as soon as Norway is recognized as a separate state, while Norway agrees to destroy all the new frontier fortifications. The other conditions are still under consideration.

Denies Alarmist Reports.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—The conference of Swedish and Norwegian delegates readjourned today. M. Michebon, head of the Norwegian delegation, authorized the following statement in view of the alarmist stories of Norwegian war preparations:

"Reports of mobilization of troops by Norway are greatly exaggerated. They probably were circulated for the purpose of creating a sensation. In any case no more troops will be sent to the frontier while the conference is sitting."

Denial as to Mobilization.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 18.—Another semi-official denial was issued today of renewed charges of a Norwegian mobilization of troops made in this morning's Swedish papers. It is declared that Norway has made no military preparations except such as were absolutely necessary from a defensive point of view, and that the report that practically all the troops in central Norway and in the frontier districts have been mobilized is unfounded.

President Mitchell of Union Gives Date of Anthracite Meeting to Formulate Demands.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 18.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers announced today that the convention of workers of the three anthracite districts at which demands will be formulated to be presented to the anthracite coal companies next spring, will be held here on Dec. 14. The award of the anthracite coal strike commission will expire March 31 next year. Among the demands that the convention probably will formulate are an eight hour work day for all classes of mine workers, recognition of the union, and a yearly agreement with the coal companies.

have an economical administration of the army and navy. The attention of the president has been called to the need of fixing the responsibility. The navy complains it is impossible for it to have an economical administration when its chief is shifted with such frequency, as in the past, to another department.

Since 1901 there have been at the head of the navy department John D. Long, Massachusetts; W. H. Moody, Massachusetts; Paul Morton, Illinois; and Charles J. Bonaparte, Maryland. Mr. Bonaparte will remain in his present office only a few months, the president having announced that some time next summer he will be transferred to the department of justice. The result is that one secretary of the navy will issue an order which will be countermanded by his successor.

War Department Changes Fewer.

There has been more permanency in the war department, Elihu Root having remained five years, when he was succeeded by W. H. Taft. Mr. Bonaparte is endeavoring to carry out the president's ideas with regard to fixing responsibility. In ordering the court martial of Commander Lucien Young, who commanded the Bennington, which experienced the frightful boiler accident at San Diego, he has turned the navy almost upside down. When the old engineer corps was in existence the engineer officers alone were responsible for the condition of the machinery department of a ship. In a general way only was the captain responsible. The engineer officer enjoyed the same independence with respect to his department that the medical officers did to the health of the crew or the pay officer with respect to the disbursement of moneys.

Secretary Bonaparte, by his action in Commander Young's case, has given the navy to understand that the commanding officer of a vessel has direct, as well as indirect, responsibility. The result will be to cause the naval commanders to exercise greater supervision in every department of their men of war. It is an increase of work and responsibility which is not relished, but tends to greater efficiency, and as this is what the president wants, Secretary Bonaparte's action has met with executive approval.

APPEALING OVER ALDERMEN'S HEADS.

The mayor is going to begin speaking to the people about his contract plan. His object is not precisely clear. It may be to spread popular information on the subject, or it may be to promote, if possible, a back fire from constituents on hesitating aldermen.

Is the traction problem yet at the stage for another popular campaign on it? Is the mayor's contract plan yet in shape for a platform discussion? Is it in such shape, even, that aldermen can reasonably be expected to align themselves concerning it—or be justified in so aligning themselves? If not, the mayor would be setting up imaginary foes if he assumed in any way now to appeal to the people over the heads of the aldermen before they have even had facilities for giving the plan careful consideration.

Every alderman and every "man on the street" knows in a rough way what the principle and purpose of the contract plan are, but they do not know its details, and it is not as yet in practicable and accessible form for study. The "documents" have not been brought together in print, and in regard to many essential points those now existing are too defective to be convincing. It is not to be admitted, at least at the present stage, that any large number of the aldermen will be controlled by selfish or political motives in their final attitude towards the mayor's project. It is to be assumed, however, that they will—and, indeed, insisted that they shall—form intelligent and independent judgments thereon. For that purpose they should have the project set forth in a well jointed and comprehensive report. Until such a report has been made available to the aldermen themselves the time will not have arrived for any platform appeal over their heads.

Moreover, the judgments of popular audiences are appropriate for principles rather than for the details of a contentious proposition, and to undertake to accredit such a specific proposition by appealing to support for a general principle or program is a procedure capable of easy abuse. Perhaps it is as little to be assumed that the mayor intends any such unfair pressure as it is that he will resort to patronage as a disguised form of bribery to insure aldermanic votes.

The general public believe that the Chicago city council—take the body as a whole—will treat the traction question on its merits. It is to be hoped that both council and mayor will avoid all needless friction which might in any way prejudice the prospect of such treatment.

CAB FARES.

A movement having been started to compel Chicago cabmen to quit charging more than the legal fares, the cabmen have started a counter movement to get the council to increase those fares. They say the fares they are now permitted to exact are too small, and that if they strictly complied with the ordinance they could not make a living.

The contention that the legal fares are too small does not seem well founded. The cabman who was kept reasonably busy during the day at the legal rates would be well paid for the services of himself and his turnout. Probably if the ordinance relative to cab fares were strictly enforced some cabmen would be forced out of business. This, however, is not because the legal fares are too low, but because cabmen are too many. The cabman's is the one of the businesses in which the economic principle that competition keeps down prices often does not operate in practice. Most men, when they hire a cab, do not ask in advance what the fare will be, do not know the legal fares, and cannot accurately estimate the distance they ride. Fares, in consequence, are usually whatever the cabman thinks he dares make them. The larger the fares that may be exacted, the more men will go into the business. Chicago cabmen have been long permitted habitually to charge excessive fares. If anybody doubts that in consequence there is an excessive number of cabmen here, let him go to the various places where cabmen wait for business and see how many of them lounge about for hours at a time every day with nothing to do.

A strict enforcement of the existing ordinance relating to cab charges, by driving out of the cab business some of the uselessly large number of men now in it, would inflict upon them a temporary loss—a loss, however, of which they could not with much justice complain, since it would be indirectly due to the exorbitant and illegal fares they and others have been in the habit of charging. Nonenforcement of that ordinance, or an increase in the legal fares, would involve a permanent loss to the public. Plainly the interests of the public should be put above those of a comparatively small number of cabmen by council and police. The police, however, cannot unaided make the fare ordinance effective. As long as people will not learn what the legal fares are, or report extortionate charges to the police, the fare ordinance will continue to be violated.

CORPORATION POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

With regard to the secret contribution made by the officials of the New York Life Insurance company to the campaign funds of the republican party, and with regard to contributions made by any other insurance company to that or any other political organization, two or three plain propositions may be stated.

1. A contribution of this kind should not have been made. The money in the keeping of insurance companies is a trust fund. All money paid in by the people to the New York Life Insurance company and the earnings of that money belong to its policy holders, and to them alone. It should not have been used for political protection, for political advantage, for the propagation of political ideas, or for any political purpose whatever. The officials have no discretion in this matter. They are as clearly trustees of the money as the trustees of savings banks are of the money intrusted to them. They were not elected to promote political success or to bring about political action in a certain direction. Policy holders did not have that object in view when they intrusted their money to them. Policy holders belong to all parties, but even policy holders of a party which is the beneficiary might not approve of contributions to a campaign fund.

2. No contributions for any purpose should be made by any corporation without the knowledge of the directors and the authority of their vote. Corporate contributions to outside purposes are customary if approved by a vote of the directors, but in few instances are such contributions made without such a vote, or at least without the knowledge of an executive committee.

3. National committees should not appeal to the New York Life Insurance company or to any similar corporation holding trust funds for contributions, and if they appeal they should be promptly refused. No national committee should make an appeal for contributions unless willing to have the appeal given the widest publicity. Secret appeals and secret contributions are always suspicious.

4. There should be an act of federal legislation compelling disclosures of all such contributions, so that the motives of the contributors may be known. It is not probable that the New York Life Insurance company's contribution to the republican campaign fund was used for corrupt purposes, or that the contributors expected it would be, but it is clear they did expect to receive favors and good treatment in return for it from the national administration. Nearly all contributions are made by corporations with that object in view. In municipal campaigns they are made to both parties, so that the contributors will be protected whichever side wins. It is not easy to draw the exact line between these practices and blackmail. It is not party success which the contributors in such cases care for, but the chance to enjoy certain indulgences, and, perhaps, unlawful indulgences, or the transactions would not be conducted so secretly.

There is no reform more urgent, none which would be more generally approved, than a national election law requiring a complete disclosure of all political contributions, and a statement of the uses to which they are applied in presidential campaigns. Its extension to all congressional elections would be just as widely approved, and such legislation would speedily commend itself as useful in state and municipal elections.

Then there would be an absence of postelection obligations, and there would be no more such corporation scandals as the one under consideration. The policy holders put in their money to be held in trust for a special purpose, and that purpose the remotest possible one from political. To state their offense in the lightest manner possible, it was a violation of the proprieties for the trustees of the fund to use any part of it for any other purpose. They may make all the contributions they please to this or that political party out of their own pockets, but not out of a fund held in trust for the benefit of policy holders.

THE FARCE ON LAKE ERIE.

Apparently the masters of American fishing tugs plying on Lake Erie feel that life is a hollow void of neglected opportunities unless they occasionally slip over into Canadian waters and draw the fire of a Canadian patrol boat. Lake Erie has been the scene of many a heroic and stirring incident this summer. American fishing crews regularly go over the boundary line and the patrol boats do their duty. The latest engagement between them is typical. The Harry C. Barnhurst, American tug, was discovered by the Vigilant, Canadian cruiser, pursuing the even tenor of its illegal way by fishing eight miles inside the Canadian line. A demand for the tug's surrender followed. Capt. Fasel, commanding the tug, remembering the sayings of great Americans under similar circumstances, rose nobly to his opportunity. "Americans never surrender!" he shouted; and he put on full steam and ran for the boundary line, forgetting that Americans should never run. The cruiser shot away portions of the tug's upper works and wounded two men; but there was no surrender. All true Americans will feel proud to read that the noble little tug easily outran the patrol boat. The Barnhurst came "limping into port" with the chip still on the doughty captain's shoulder.

Considering that there is no dispute concerning the boundaries of the Lake Erie fishing waters, the conduct of the American crews is hardly excipable. They know that by crossing the line they violate the boundary law and invite pursuit and possible damage or capture by the Canadian government boats. They know that constant transgression of the law has made the Canadian authorities particularly vigilant. From a business standpoint the game is surely not worth the candle. The only explanation that presents itself is that the practice of pulling a few small hairs on the end of the lion's tail is so dear to the fishermen that they will not forego it, even if their conduct brings down on their heads the ridicule of the rest of the country.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

Dumas père, who was proud of the prices he received for his work, was once boasting of the fact.

"Beyond a doubt," he remarked, "I am the best paid of living men of letters. I receive thirty sous a line."

"Indeed, monsieur?" said a bystander, "I have never worked for less than £5,000 a line. What do you think of that?"

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1905: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

There is no more important or difficult post in the German army than that of chief of the military cabinet of the kaiser. For the emperor is in every sense of the word the commander in chief of the military forces of Germany, reduces the ministers of war of Prussia, Würtemberg, and of all the minor German states to the rôle of mere clerks, and decides everything himself, particularly the allotment of the various commands and the selection of the various officers for promotion. The chief of his military cabinet is, therefore, a far more powerful personage than any mere minister of war, and both during the days of old Emperor William and likewise during the present reign complaint has often been made in the German press and in the reichstag that the de facto head of the war department was not the minister of war, accountable to the imperial parliament, but the chief of the military cabinet of the emperor, accountable to no one but the latter.

The news therefore that Gen. Count Hulsen Haeseler is no longer in the favor of his imperial master and about to vacate the office of chief of the military cabinet, to which he succeeded on the retirement of Field Marshal Count Hahnke, now governor general of Berlin, and that he is in turn to make way for Gen. de Mackensen, excites an immense amount of interest among all those who are entitled through past or present services to wear the kaiser's uniform. For it lies with the chief of the military cabinet to submit to the emperor the names for promotion and for commands.

Count Hulsen Haeseler, who must not be confounded with Field Marshal Count Haeseler, a much older man, can boast of being about the only man for whom the kaiser ever has played the rôle of Cupid. For fifteen years ago young Hulsen, who was merely a good looking major at the time, and one of the officers in waiting on the emperor, found himself head over ears in love with the beautiful Mlle. Hildegarde von Lucadou, daughter of the general of that name, and one of the greatest heiresses in Germany. The major, who had little beyond his pay, his father being the director general of the Royal theaters, found that his suit was displeasing to the parents of the object of his worship, and after due encouragement by the emperor made a clean breast to him of the whole affair.

The kaiser thereupon took upon himself to secure the consent of Gen. and Mme. von Lucadou, and one day drove to their house quite alone, but in full dress uniform, bearing a huge bouquet. This he presented to Mme. von Lucadou, at the same time making a formal request for the hand of the daughter of the general and herself for his favorite adjutant, Maj. von Hulsen. It is scarcely necessary to say that this step on the part of the kaiser removed all obstacles. For not only were the girl's parents afraid of giving offense to their sovereign but they likewise realized that an officer whose cause the kaiser championed to such a degree was naturally destined to a brilliant career.

The marriage took place in 1892 in the presence of the emperor and empress, the parents of the bride settling a large sum of money upon her, which has been enormously increased since their death, as they were colossally rich, their wealth having been amassed by the Lucadou family in trade and industry. Two years after the marriage the emperor conferred the rank of count upon his favorite aid, authorizing him at the same time to add to his own name the ancient one of his mother, who had been a Countess von Haeseler. His military promotion advanced by leaps and by bounds. He was advanced in rapid succession to lieutenant colonel, colonel, major general, lieutenant general, and finally to the post of chief of the military cabinet, while every now and again the emperor would organize something in the nature of surprise parties for his aid de camp. That is to say, the latter would return home from the palace and find assembled in his dining room the emperor and a chosen party of friends, the whole table decked out with wines and dishes brought from the palace in the emperor's own fourgon.

All sorts of stories are current as to the fall from grace of the erstwhile favorite. But it is generally believed to be due to errors of judgment in the recommendation of names for promotion and for commands.

Baron Salomon Gunzberg, who committed suicide the other day by blowing out his brains at his house in Paris, in consequence, it is said, of disastrous speculations in sugar, is the son of that wonderful old Baron Ury Gunzberg, who, after acquiring an altogether colossal fortune in Russia, partly in grain at Odessa and partly by financial deals at St. Petersburg, betook himself to Paris to enjoy his wealth, and played a prominent rôle in the French capital towards the close of the second Napoleonic empire, his entertainments at his palace in the Rue de Tilsit exciting amazement by their inordinate luxury, even in that era of insane extravagance. The mansion was in those days the most gorgeous in Paris, and the magnificent Gobelin tapestries, representing scenes from the life of "Don Quixote," were celebrated throughout Europe and a source of inordinate envy of the Empress Eugénie.

While the Gunzbergs, who have remained the principal Jewish banking and grain house in Russia, had no foothold in society at St. Petersburg, and were barred from court, yet the members of the reigning house of Russia never disdained to accept their hospitality at Paris, and the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir in particular were in the habit of frequently attending their splendid shooting parties in their big game preserves in the neighborhood of Versailles.

The Gunzbergs do not, however, seem to have entertained the same regard for the financial honor of their name as the Rothschilds and other great Jewish houses of finance in Europe. For about twelve years ago I remember one of the brothers of Baron Salomon, who has just committed suicide, falling at Paris for an enormous sum, without the other members of his family coming to his rescue. The crisis in his affairs was ascribed largely to his extravagance in connection with the Parisian half world, and there is on record his having paid a bill of $250,000 merely for the lingerie of the at that time lovely demi-mondaine, Alice Howard.

Baron Jacques Gunzberg, through the threats of his father to withdraw all his interests from Russia, managed to secure a commission in one of the crack regiments of the guard at St. Petersburg. But, as in the case of Baron Beichroeder in a similar instance at Berlin, the other officers of the regiment, by means of boycott and analagous measures, made life so intolerable for him that he was glad to resign.

Another of the brothers, Baron Horace Gunzberg, undertook to prove to the late czar the baselessness of the popular belief prevailing in Russia that Jews were as a rule unfitted for agricultural labor, and disinclined thereto, by setting apart 10,000 acres of his estates in the province of Bessarabia as a settlement for Jewish agriculturists. And, inasmuch as the persecution of the Jews by the Russian government has been mainly due to the conviction that Jews were injurious to agriculture, the staple industry of the empire, and that by establishing themselves everywhere as traders and money lenders they sapped the resources and reduced to poverty and ruin the peasantry engaged in agriculture, the baron arranged that on the 10,000 acres which he had set apart for his experiment the Jews should be restricted exclusively to agriculture, and debarred from trade, and that should stores, money lending establishments, or dramshops be found necessary, they could only be kept by Gentiles. It is greatly to be regretted that before this most interesting and important experiment could be brought to a conclusion Baron Horace died, and not long afterwards the late czar himself was gathered to his fathers, and the matter was allowed to drop.

Baron Salomon Gunsberg is by no means the first conspicuous member of his race to take his own life. Especially among those of them who have inherited great wealth, there is a vein of melancholy, which leads them, in the event of misfortune, to magnify their sorrows and to seek relief from them in self-inflicted death, and one could enumerate quite a long list of suicides of this kind, commencing with that of Baron Reinach.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD HOURS

[Copyright: 1905: By Tribune Company.]

The children are at play there in the street.
Hark! How their ringing laughter charms the ear!
Ah, simple joys of childhood, pure and sweet,
And innocent and fair, and full of cheer!
Rare melodies through all their laughter beat—
(Why, Harold! Don't pull little Emma's ear!)
(There, now. That's settled.) It is as I say!
The children's days are lifetime's fairest bloom—
Like glowing blossoms they make glad the day,
And make existence rich with their perfume—
(You strike poor Sue again, you Lizzie May,
And you'll go supperless straight to your room!)
O, little do we realise our joys
When childhood's happy hours are fleeting by,
But when we are no longer girls and boys
We cast our longing glances back and sigh—
(For goodness sake! Who's making all that noise?
You little wretch! You've blackened Harold's eye!)
And we, we children of a larger growth,
How much we envy now each pure young heart,
And muse upon our youth, all sadly loath
Upon our older paths again to start.
(May! Emma! I shall surely whip you both.
Excuse me while I get them pulled apart!)

LONDON'S POPULATION OFFERS DIFFICULTIES.

Metropolis of the World Still Growing Above the Present Census of 7,000,000—Problem Becoming Greater Every Day—Pauper Classes Hold Balance of Power.

[FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Two hundred years ago, when Kensington was a rural village and Bloomsbury a favorite suburb for duelists, some wise citizens met in conference to debate how to prevent the intolerable and unceasing growth of London.

They discovered no plan. London is still growing and spreading outward and upward, with cumulative rapidity. Each year she sucks in fresh villages, each year her central streets mount higher. The new volume of "London Statistics," a useful and ponderous annual of 654 pages, published by the London county council, presents a mass of figures almost overwhelming.

Greater London today contains 30 per cent more people than the whole of Canada, and 40 per cent more than Australasia from British New Guinea to Tasmania. The inhabitants of Norway and Switzerland combined come to little more than three-quarters of London's great family. Each year the capital receives an increase equal to the total residents in Middlesbrough.

Population Centers in Inner London.

Allowing for the growth since the last census, the total population of London and outer London today cannot be much less than 7,000,000. This increase is centrifugal in distribution. The population of the city has declined 80 per cent in a century, and for every five people sleeping there in 1805 there is only one today. The county of London has in the same time increased sixfold, but the increase in inner London has almost reached its limit. The main growth now is in what is known as the "outer ring," the great district outside the county, but under the metropolitan police. There the population has multiplied 50 per cent in ten years, and is showing a greater proportionate and actual gain each year.

This growth shows no sign of stopping. The number of foreign born people living in London has more than doubled in twenty years, leaving out of count the children of foreigners born in this country. The foreign born people in London today far exceed the combined populations of the two counties of Hertfordshire and Rutland.

The birth rate of London has steadily diminished, being 36.55 in 1867, and only 28.4 in 1903. The effect of this has, however, been counteracted by a decline in the death rate, which in the year covered by these returns reached the amazingly low figure of 15.2 per thousand.

Public Utilities Multiplying.

The ratable value of London is rising even faster than the population, but this may be as much due to the eager desire of the local authorities to augment their incomes as to a real increase of values. The number of municipal services for the people is multiplying. In recent years London has taken over its own tramways, it now owns its own water supply, public steamers run on the Thames, electric supply is more and more drifting into the hands of the borough councils, and the total of public baths, libraries, washhouses, and parks is ever growing. One borough, Camberwell, now boasts its municipal Turkish baths.

The most ominous features of the returns are the disproportionate deaths of young children in various districts, the growth of lunacy, the increase of pauperism, the large proportion of unpunished crimes, and the heavy rise in debt and rates.

In Shoreditch, out of every 1,000 children born 171 die before they are a year old. In Hampstead, out of the same number only 88 die. This one fact gives the different conditions of health in east and west more vividly than a mass of detailed comparisons. In the county of London the deaths average one in each seven minutes, day and night, all the year round.

Behind in Epidemic Diseases.

London is conspicuously behind most of the leading foreign capitals in freedom from the leading epidemic diseases. Our death rate from these is twice as high as that of most of the great European capitals. St. Petersburg, however, leaves London behind, doubling our average. It is notable that Shoreditch, which has unhappily preëminence for its infant death rate, also ranks as one of the two leading epidemic centers of London. Poplar is the other. There are more than five times as many deaths, proportionately, from epidemics in Shoreditch than there are in Hampstead.

The most healthy suburb in London is Hampstead, its death and disease returns being far below those of any other, except its friendly rival, Lewisham. Next to these, but with a distance between them, come Wandsworth and Stoke Newington. Finsbury has the highest death rate, with Holborn and Shoreditch following after. For every seven persons who die in Hampstead, thirteen in proportion to population die in Finsbury.

The number of paupers, both outdoor and indoor, grows year after year. There are no fewer than 136,000 paupers and pauper lunatics now chargeable to the rates, taking the figures for one day as a criterion. This shows an increase for four years of over 11,000. Londoners are paying about sixteen shillings per head for the relief of the poor. In Lancaster the cost is less than six shillings per head. Even this enormous relief does not meet the problem of poverty.

A census of the streets on one winter night in central London alone showed that 1,797 men, women, and children were either walking the roadways homeless or sleeping on staircases, under doorways, or in arches. These figures are so appalling that they almost defy comment.

The number of lunatics in London is 26,739, of whom 24,282 are supported by the rates. The number is increasing so rapidly that the county council is hard pressed to find room for them, the growth being over 70 per cent in fourteen years.

The figures of county council expenditure presented in this volume have already been commented on, when issued separately. They show a growth of activity and of expenditure. The police returns reveal the amazing fact that out of 20,114 crimes known by the police to have been committed only 14,407 persons were arrested, and only 10,160 convictions secured. In other words, one crime out of every two in London goes unpunished. There were seventy-three murders and only thirty-three convictions. The great crime in London is larceny. This makes up three out of every five criminal offenses.

MRS. LEFFINGWELL'S BOOTS.

A Comedy in Three Acts.

BY

AUGUSTUS THOMAS.

Presented at Powers' Theater, Chicago, by Charles Frohman, Sept. 18, 1905. The Cast:

Mrs. Bonner	Dorothy Hammond
Mrs. Rumsey	Mrs. A. A. Adams
Dr. Rumsey	Henry Harmon
Nora	Jessie Busley
Orton	Harry Lilford
Mabel Ainslie	Jane Laurel
Walter Corbin	William Courtenay
Howard Leffingwell	Louis Payne
Richard Ainslee	Vincent Serrano
Mrs. Leffingwell	Margaret Illington
Thomas Bonner	Frank Burbeck

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" is peculiar. In form it is strangely jumbled. In story it is quite out of the usual. It has much of the improbability in situation and the scamper in action of farce; it has considerable of the strenuousness of melodrama; it has many of the trappings and forms of elegant comedy; and it has a goodly portion of the sentiment that belongs to true "heart drama." The spectator is kept busy jumping along after the author as he skips from one dramatic style to another. At times the shocks endured are disconcerting, and enjoyment is placed in question, but when the evening is finished the general impression received has been so out of the ordinary that the performance is apt to linger in the memory, and the conclusions be that the evening has been rather interestingly spent.

The story is as strange as the form. Walter Corbin and Richard Ainslee had been college chums, and one day, in a game of sport, Corbin had struck Ainslee a blow on the side of the head, which had indented slightly the skull, and the pressure of the bone on the brain had made the young fellow mentally peculiar and morally unreliable. He was not crazy, but his sense of right and wrong seemed to have been dulled. He forged his father's and his brother's name on different occasions, and during the six years since the accident occurred had brought nothing but sorrow and anxiety to his family.

His sister, Mabel, became engaged to Corbin, but Ainslee, in one of his wild moments, played a trick which so compromised Corbin that the young girl broke off the engagement. Corbin had gone to Bar Harbor and while there had chanced to meet a Mrs. Leffingwell, who, with her husband, was summering at the resort. Ainslee one night secured a pair of Mrs. Leffingwell's riding boots and placed them on a fire escape by Corbin's window, where they were seen. Mr. Leffingwell was foolishly jealous of his wife, and, believing that her good name was at stake, he had permitted himself to be bled of a large sum of money by Ainslee, who pretended to be a detective and was about to expose Mrs. Leffingwell's perfidy. Corbin suffered in silence, because the exposing of Ainslee's condition and identity meant sorrow to Mabel.

Such are the conditions when the play opens. Mrs. Bonner, wife of a successful painter, is just giving a dinner to a number of people who are possible purchasers of her husband's pictures. Mabel Ainslee is visiting her and among the guests expected are Mr. and Mrs. Leffingwell and a young fellow of whom Mr. Bonner is insanely jealous, but for whom Mrs. Bonner really cares nothing. A fearful blizzard—"the worst since Roscoe Conkling died"—is raging, and the guests fail to arrive. Walter Corbin chances in, however, having been caught in the storm, and wishes to use the phone to call a cab. He finds he cannot get to town, and is induced to stay. He meets Mabel, and, explaining again the episode of the boots, is taken into favor again.

Ainslee also comes, meets Mrs. Bonner, and shows her a telegram telling of Mabel's death. It is a forged message, designed to secure a loan of $100 from the Bonners. Mabel herself faces the young man, and he confesses to her that he again has forged a note and must have the money before morning in order to save himself. Mrs. Bonner, who is called to the phone, receives word that all her guests have been detained by the storm. She insists on Ainslee's remaining and he consents until he hears that Mrs. Leffingwell is coming. Then he makes a hurried excuse and rushes out. A cry for help is heard and Mrs. Leffingwell is found to be stuck in a snow drift at the gate. Corbin and the maid rush out to rescue her, and she enters shivering and almost frozen, is called to the phone by her husband, and the first act ends in a veritable hurly burly of noisy farce.

In the second act Mrs. Bonner's father, Dr. Rumsey, who is 72 in age, is sitting in the studio with Corbin. The guests have had to be put up for the night, and Corbin and the doctor are to occupy the studio. They have a long conversation, in which the doctor explains all the mysteries of osteopathy. He tells how he was at one time made mentally unbalanced by being struck by a favorite horse, and later was cured by a single osteopathic treatment. Corbin is interested, for he thinks that possibly Ainslee could be cured in similar fashion. While they are talking Ainslee comes as a burglar to try to steal his sister's jewels, and pawn them, in order to raise the $100. Corbin and the doctor capture him, bind him, and, during the following few hours of the night the doctor treats him osteopathically, removes the pressure, and makes an honest, sane, and incidentally repentantly explanatory man of him. The mystery of the boots is cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned, Corbin and Mabel are united, and the jealousy of the Leffingwells is cured—at least everybody hopes so.

The performance itself is thoroughly commendable, for the cast contains players of acknowledged abilities, each of whom is suitably placed. Mr. Courtenay, as Corbin, is lover, athlete, comedian, and farceur each in turn, and the turns are many, and yet he slips easily and gracefully from the one to the other and leaves a pleasing impression at the close. He has much to do, so far as quantity and variety are concerned, but little that stands out as particularly trying.

Mr. Serrano, as the mentally disturbed Ainslee, does some effective work in the first act, when by facial expression, a restless look in the eyes, a slightly twisted position of the head, and quick movements he suggests the man who is not quite normal in mind and character. It is a skillful handling of the most difficult rôle in the play. Mr. Harmon gives a peculiarly true and sympathetic impersonation of the deaf doctor and Mr. Lilford plays a patronizing hired butler with good understanding.

Miss Hammond is graceful and womanly as Mrs. Bonner. Mrs. Adams gives a sweet portrayal of the elderly wife of the doctor. Miss Busley is amusing in a thankless rôle of the servant Nora, and Miss Laurel plays Mabel simply and sympathetically. Her farce scene of accusation with Mr. Leffingwell in the last act is especially well handled. Miss Illington as Mrs. Leffingwell, has one of the smallest and least important parts in the play. She does the farcical frozen scene at the climax of the first act in dashing and amusing style, and in the other two acts accomplishes with ease and in entirely satisfactory manner all that is required of her. The play is handsomely staged and costumed, but the waits between acts last night were inexcusably long.

"The Filibuster," a new musical comedy, had its first Chicago presentation last evening at the Studebaker. Comment is deferred.

Babes in the Woods Lacks Dash.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—"Babes in the Woods," a spectacular musical production in two acts and twelve scenes, the book by A. M. Thompson and Robert C. Courtneidg, was given at the Lyric theater tonight. With due respect to the enterprise of Mr. Fisher in importing this huge spectacle, the performance lacks dash. A serious drawback was the scarcity of really clever people in the cast and chorus.

The story is built on the theme of the well known nursery rhyme, but with additions from "Robin Hood" and "Cinderella." Some of the scenes that called forth applause showed the market square at Nottingham, the fair ground in the same city, a toy country, the interior of a huge department store, Sherwood forest, and a bare room in Robin Hood's castle. There were pretty songs and dances here and there. The specialties may be said to be new.

In the cast were two funmakers—Junie McCree and Fred Walton, an English pantomimic comedian, who played the part of a toy soldier.

Lady Alethea Frobisher, her sister	Mary Mannering

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—"The Walls of Jericho," by Alfred Sutro, was presented for the first time in America tonight at the National theater. Judging from the warmth of its reception the play will duplicate the success in London, where it is now in its second year and still playing to crowded houses.

In "The Walls of Jericho" Mr. Hackett at last has found a good play. The action of the play takes place in fashionable Mayfair, and the leading characters possess titles of sufficient importance to interest every one. In this atmosphere of tropical social life move two men of wealth from Australia. One, Jack Frobisher (Mr. Hackett), has married a young and beautiful member of the smart set, Lady Alethea (Mary Mannering), and the other, Hankey Bannister (David Glassford), who contemplates marrying Lady Lucy, sister of Lady Alethea. Frobisher gradually awakens to the fact he is stagnating in the enervating air of society, and after becoming aroused by his wife's innocent flirtation with Harry Dallas (William Harcourt) and her penchant for cigarets, gambling, and gossip, once more assumes mastery of himself and determines to take his wife and child with him back to Australia.

The play is cleverly conceived. Each act develops logically. The situations are strengthened until the big climax is reached at the close of the third act, when Frobisher asserts himself.

The dialogue is exceedingly clever. The stage setting and costumes are attractive.

As Frobisher Mr. Hackett won approval by the earnestness of his work. His new rôle is a genuine treat in its departure from the sword slashing, velvet attired gallants of former plays.

Miss Mannering scored a hit as the wife. She was sweet, coquettish, and womanly, and artistically brought out the lights and shades of the character.

As the marquis of Steventon, W. J. Ferguson, and William Harcourt claim the honors after the stars. The remainder of the supporting company is excellent.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

DATE OF M'FADON-WILLING MARRIAGE CHANGED.

Ceremony Will Take Place at Quincy, Ill., Old Home of the Bride, on Oct. 5, Bishop Nicholson of Milwaukee to Officiate—Nuptials of Miss Florence Durgin to Mr. Martin L. C. Wilmarth to Be Celebrated on Oct. 4 at Sandy Hill, N. Y.

A change has been made in the date for the marriage of Miss Margaret Woodbridge McFadon to Mr. Mark Skinner Willing. Instead of being celebrated in November, as was planned, the marriage will take place on Monday, Oct. 2, in Quincy, Ill., at the old McFadon homestead, which is now occupied by Mrs. William A. Richardson, an aunt of the bride-elect.

It will be a noon wedding, with only the immediate relatives present, owing to the recent bereavement to Mr. Willing. Bishop Nicholson of Milwaukee, a cousin of Miss McFadon, will perform the ceremony. Miss Katherine McFadon will be her sister's maid of honor, and the only attendant. A wedding breakfast will follow the ceremony, and the young couple will leave then for their wedding journey, which will take them to Europe for a long stay.

Their plans for the future are not definitely framed, except that they will join the Lake Forest colony next summer, Mr. Willing having bought property there for a new home. Whether they will use the Willing homestead in Rush street for a winter home has not been decided. Miss McFadon is a daughter of Mrs. Robert D. McFadon, 381 East Superior street.

Miss Florence Durgin, daughter of Mr. John C. Durgin of Sandy Hill, N. Y., formerly of Chicago, will be married to Mr. Martin L. C. Wilmarth on Wednesday evening, Oct. 4, at 8 o'clock in the Presbyterian church at Sandy Hill. A reception will follow at the Durgin residence, 259½ Main street.

A wedding of this evening will be that of Miss Mary Corinne Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman, 187 Oakwood boulevard, to Mr. John Loring Cook. It will be a house ceremony, the Rev. J. H. Mackay to officiate at 8 o'clock. Mr. Cook has presented his bride with a new home, and after Nov. 1 they will receive at 3031 Magnolia avenue.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Alice Watkins, daughter of Mrs. Emma B. Watkins of 338 Fifty-seventh street, to Frederick Newman took place last evening at the residence of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Clinton Locke, 2825 Indiana avenue, will return from Wequetonsing, Mich., today. Her daughter, Mrs. John Kenneth Macomber, and young sons have been at home for several days, and are at the Locke home. Mr. and Mrs. James Dun, Miss Mary Dun, and Mr. William J. Rucker, 503 North State street, are taking an extensive trip through the White mountains. At present they are at Bretton Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Amberg, 461 North State street, have returned from Mackinac island, where they spent six weeks with Mr. Amberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Amberg, at their summer home, Edgecliff. Mr. and Mrs. William Amberg will not open their city residence at 447 North State street until after Oct. 1.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Maude Williams, daughter of the Rev. G. C. Williams, to Mr. Herbert Underhill Moore will take place this evening in Bethany Union church. One Hundred and Third and Wood streets, of which Mr. Williams is pastor. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock by the bride's father. Miss Dorothy Kate Williams, sister of the bride, and Mr. C. Moore, brother of the groom, will be the attendants.

Mr. J. Ellsworth Gross, 3000 Michigan avenue, has cards out for two studio teas to take place on Monday and Tuesday afternoon and evening of next week. The hours will be from 3 to 6 and from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wells, who spent the summer in Paris, have returned to the city and are residing at 4331 Greenwood avenue.

Mrs. A. H. Semper, 1568 Belmore avenue, will give a luncheon for thirty guests tomorrow as a farewell affair before leaving for New York, her future home.

DALLAS TEXAS STILL SINGLE.

Blunder in Marriage License Ascribed by Minister to Rattled Condition of the Groom.

Dallas Texas is not married after all, although a license was issued by Clerk Salmonson on Sept. 12 for the marriage of Ephraim Davis to Miss Dallas Texas, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. A. Quayle.

But the bride's name was not Dallas Texas at all. Dr. Quayle explained the error in the following letter to the marriage license clerk:

Will you note that in the license issued to Ephraim Davis and Catherine Delles, that the groom in his rattled condition in applying for the license gave as the bride's name the pet name her friends always called her. Her name being, as I have written, Catherine Delles, from which arose the calling her "Dallas Texas." I have placed both names in the return.

WILLIAM A. QUAYLE.

ILLEGES TRICK AT HORSE SHOW

Chester Pearson Says D. G. Trench Does Not Own His Prize Winner—Later Scouts Charge.

As an aftermath of the Oak Park horse show, Daniel G. Trench, a Chicago manufacturer, and a director of the horse show association, has been charged with representing the horse Fairoaks, entered in the saddle horse class, as his own property, when it belonged to C. E. Dunlop, a horse dealer of Fulton, Mo. Mr. Trench won three prizes with his entries.

The charge is made by Chester Pearson, 5017 West Ontario street, Oak Park, and has been filed with the board of directors for their consideration next Saturday.

"The accusation is groundless and absurd," said Mr. Trench. "Mr. Dunlop merely acted as my agent in buying Fairoaks a month before the show opened."

Seeks to Regulate Sorority 'Rushing.'

AMY H. OLGEN.

Miss Amy H. Olgen, who was chairman of the national intersorority conference held last week at the Victoria hotel, is heading a movement to bring about harmony among the different college sororities and to lessen the alleged evils of the "rushing" season, which will begin with the opening of the colleges.

Miss Olgen is a student at Northwestern university and a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Through her efforts the sororities of Northwestern have held a conference and adopted rules by which they will be governed when the "rushing" begins. By the agreement, no sorority will be allowed to pledge a girl to membership until she has been in college one month or more, and the number of formal parties to be given by each society will be limited.

The girls will make an effort to secure permission from the faculty to live in sorority houses, which is customary in other coeducational schools, but which has not been allowed in northwestern.

OAK PARK PASTORS REWRITE THE GOSPEL IN NOVEL FORM.

Book Entitled "His Life" Is Published for Current Circulation to Appeal to Casual Readers of Periodicals.

The biblical account of the life of Christ has just been issued in an entirely new and distinctive form by an association composed of the ministers of all denominations in Oak Park. The book is of pocket size, attractively bound, and contains a connected narrative which does not differ in mechanical appearance from an ordinary novel.

The little book, which is entitled "His Life: An Interwoven Narrative," is the work of three of the Oak Park ministers—the Rev. William E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational church; the Rev. Theodore G. Soares of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. Sydney Strong of the Second Congregational church. The immediate object of the volume is to present the gospel narrative in such a form as will appeal to the casual reader of periodicals and novels. It is to be circulated from newsstands and on trains, as well as by regular religious workers.

Copies of the book were placed on sale for the first time at several of the Oak Park churches on Sunday. The idea originated in the success of a similar booklet which was issued last spring.

DEFEND THE NEW HYMNAL

CHICAGO METHODISTS SAY SONG BOOK IS ABOVE CRITICISM.

Dispatch from New York That Amazement Is Caused by the Prominence Given So-Called Worldly Writers Is Declared to Be Without Foundation—Embodiment of "The Recessional" and Songs by Present Day Authors Is Praised.

Despite the fact that Rudyard Kipling, whose church going tendencies are said to be undeveloped, has been given representation in the new Methodist hymnal, progressive members of the church believe the song book to be above criticism. The dispatch sent out from New York City to the effect that old time Methodists are amazed at the prominence given to so-called worldly writers and are annoyed at the ritualistic word "amen," which appears for the first time at the end of all hymns in the book, was declared in Chicago yesterday to be without foundation.

Editor Defends New Book.

"I am sure there is no criticism in Methodist circles because of the new features in the book," Stephen J. Herben, editor of the national Methodist weekly, said in the afternoon. "We want to keep abreast of the times, and we believe in publishing the good things written by authors of today, the same as if they had lived centuries ago. 'The Recessional' of Kipling was included in the list of songs because it was considered to be uplifting. And as for the assertion that he is not a Methodist, and does not attend church, that is no doubt correct, but his uncle is one of the greatest Methodist ministers of the world. He is the Rev. F. W. Macdonald of the Wesleyan Methodist church in London, England. But, as a matter of fact, there are no adverse criticisms for the hymnal. I know that the book everywhere is commended by the greatest and noblest Methodists of the land. The New York story might have originated in this way: Maybe the sexton of Calvary church grunted because something new was being installed in the edifice, but we have received no complaints.

"It is foolish to think that any one might object to the 'Amen' which now appears as a closing expression of worship to every song. It is not ritualistic in any way, and the composers of the hymnal never had that idea in mind. It has been inserted simply to add dignity to the songs.

Hymnal Used for First Time.

The hymnal which is said to have been criticised was used in most of the churches for the first time Sunday. Besides Kipling, one of the other well known contributors is the Rev. Washington Gladden, whose poem, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," is set to music. Among the compilers of the book are C. M. Stuart of Evanston, and the Rev. W. A. Quayle of Hyde Park. The hymnal is recommended by the bishops of the church in the following words of the preface:

"The hymns admitted have been selected from the ancient and modern treasuries of religious poetry. They are the expression of sound doctrine and healthful Christian experience, and it is believed will greatly enrich our worship.

"Some stanzas have been wholly excluded on the ground that they contain imagery offensive to modern taste, and others have been omitted to secure desirable brevity. We commend it, the hymnal, to our churches, and we earnestly hope that it may everywhere supplant those unauthorized publications, which often teach what organized Methodism does not hold."

MORE PARENTS COMPLAIN OF FLOGGING IN THE SCHOOLS.

Principals Said to Have Pupils Whipped by Janitors or Engineers in Order to Evade Rule of Board.

The charge that public school principals, by subterfuge, regularly violate the rule of the school board prohibiting corporal punishment was made yesterday in letters received by members of the board of education. The school trustees said they would demand an investigation and punish every principal found guilty of evading even the spirit of the rule.

Although principals do not actually whip their unruly pupils, it is said they get the engineer or janitor to do so, or else tell the parents that if they do not make their children behave the principal will suspend them.

"It is just as much a violation of the rules of the school board for a principal to induce a parent or some third party to do the whipping as it would be were he to do it himself," Supt. Cooley said. "I will not tolerate a violation of even the spirit of the rule. If I find that any of the school principals have been getting others to whip children I shall deal with them summarily."

The letters of complaint were inspired by the revelations made during the recent trial of Principal Henry D. Hatch. Principal Hatch testified that he had been authorized to whip one of his pupils by the lad's father.

"It makes no difference how many fathers authorize the use of corporal punishment," declared a board member, "it must not be used. Parents have no right to request principals to violate the rules of the school board. The rules, on the other hand, do not give a principal the right to whip a pupil upon receiving the parents' permission. We will not permit our principals to become family floggers. When we want bruisers we will hire them."

Your boy's life in boarding school is the most important period of his life. Be sure of the school if you want to be sure of the boy.

We take boys from 8 to 17 years old (the little fellows are entirely separated from the older boys), and develop the good—moral, mental and physical—that's in them; the best way to eliminate the bad. There is always some bad even in a good boy; we don't take the really bad ones. This method is different from adding so much learning and sending the boy home as he came, plus the learning; the difference is often the difference between a developed success and a smart failure.

The boy gets some military training. We have turned out Rhodes scholarship winners. Our catalogue will interest you if you have a boy. Let us send you a copy.

The Head Master may be found at Room 510, Masonic Temple (Church Club Rooms), daily from 11:30 to 2 p. m. He will be glad to furnish parents with all information concerning the school.

STOCKS GO UP STEADILY.

NEW YORK MARKET SHOWS LITTLE HESITANCY.

Money Situation Exhibits No Appreciable Effect Upon Dealings — Advices from All Quarters Send Reports of Prosperity — Reading Becomes Disturbing Factor Momentarily and Transmits Its Effect to Subsidiary Holdings.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Prices continued to advance today in the stock market, and the movement, although suffering from reactions and periods of hesitancy, was, on the whole, steadily climbing. The money market was not so apparent in its effect upon stock values, and at no time was it an obstacle. Advices from all quarters were corroborative of the extraordinary prosperity prevailing in all parts of the country and in all lines of business. Those who were operating for higher prices are satisfied, apparently, so long as the necessary reduction of loans by the clearing house banks to keep their deposits within the legal reserve can be effected by the relieving operations of the trust companies.

The momentary strengthening effect on stocks necessarily gave place to some reselling when the rumor was found to be incorrect. The unbridled manner of the first spurt in Reading had a disturbing effect on speculation. The movement in Canadian Pacific was regarded as coming from the same sources as that in Reading. Its sympathetic effect in its subsidiary stock, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, was aided by the latter's favorable annual report. Call money was not held at the maximum level of Friday, but ruled above last week's average level. Sterling exchange moved up from the low level in the afternoon. The closing tone of stocks was irregular.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,670,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent; sterling exchange easy, closed steadier, with actual business in bankers' bills at 484.05 and 485 for demand and at 482.85@482.40 for 60 day bills; posted rates, 483½@484 and 486@486½. Commercial bills, 482. Silver, 59¾. Mexican dollars, 47¼. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular. Money on call firm, 2½@3½ per cent; closing bid 2½; offered, 3%. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¼@4 per cent; 90 days, 4 per cent; 6 months, 4¼@4½.

CORN DEAL MAY BE ABANDONED.

Patten Sells September and Private Settlements Are Made.

PRICE IS OFF TWO CENTS.

Short Line of 1,000,000 Bushels Is Reported Settled with Lichtstern.

Private settlements of a line of September corn, supposed to amount to 1,000,000 bu, and the selling of over 1,000,000 bu of that delivery in the pit by the Patten house without efforts at concealment, indicate that the deal in the current delivery in the corn pit will either become a matter of history yesterday, or had been robbed of elements which would make for a spectacular finish of the supposed "corner." The market lost its yesterday by the liquidating sales, and closed at the bottom price for the day.

J. A. Patten, the corn expert who carried the May deal through that month with a finish, practically admitted yesterday that the deal was over, and that he had let the corn go because he did not like the action of the market. The private settlement was said to have been made with A. J. Lichtstern, the trader who made a heavy killing on the short sale of the unfortunate May wheat deal of Gates.

The Lichtstern short line is presumed to have been the most important line in the market and is figured to show a loss. It is said, however, that other lines are outstanding which may make an interesting showing for the last of the month. The Patten line in the deal are figured to be small, although a good deal of the recent buying was done above the level at which the deal is said to average. The bull leader has also taken between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 bu of cash stuff on delivery.

Selling Becomes Heavy.

The bull interest sold moderately early but before the close sales were fast and furious, and the bulk of the selling was by brokers for the Bartlett-Frazier-Patten house. That house also was a free seller of May during the entire session, but this month proved the worst of the list, with but ¼c net loss at the close. A portion of this relative strength in the May was due to the fact that the bull leader in wheat appeared in the corn market as a buyer, and his operations were in the May.

The cash market was at 1c decline and this quoted in a shipping business of 750,000 bu. New York confirmed 170,000 bu export sales, Liverpool was firm. This market had much heavier receipts at 634 cars, but shipments were 952,000 bu. World's shipments were smaller at 3,350,000 bu, and on passage decreased 1,600,000 bu. The increase in local stocks was 370,000 bu, and in the visible 86,000 bu. Primary markets had about 70,000 bu less receipts than a year ago. The wet weather over the west helped the deferred months. In addition to the sales by Bartlett-Frazier, Barrell, Congdon-Stewart, Pringle, and others were free sellers. Milmine-Bodman bought September early and on the break under 53c numerous commission houses had buying orders.

Wheat Has a Small Dip.

There was a lifeless, drooping wheat market after a short period of firmness and moderate activity early in the session. Prices at to start ruled higher, contrary to general expectations, when the surprisingly heavy world's shipments and the big contributions from Russia to the total were taken into account. Firmness apparently was due to small offerings, scattered showers over the northwest, heavy rains in the winter wheat belt, and slightly higher prices in Minneapolis in spite of the liberal receipts there.

September sold up ½@¾c to 84c, December 1@1¼c over the previous close, and May got ¾c over Saturday's final price at 84@84¼c. As there were no evidences of active Armour support, however, as Minneapolis futures began to sag, the local bear element forced a slow decline of ¾@¾c from the best prices to 83¼c for September, 85¾c for December, and 85¼@¾c for May. Prices, however, were marked up by Armour brokers at the close to within ⅛c of the last prices at the week for the deferred deliveries, and within ¼@⅜c for September.

Wheat News Is Mixed.

Receipts at the two northwest points were liberal, at 1,205 cars, compared with 971 cars last year, and arrivals were grading well. Winnipeg had 268 cars, compared with 20 cars last year. This increased movement apparently was being well taken care of early, with premiums unchanged, but the weight of the offerings was felt later. No. 1 northern closing relatively easy at 2¾c over September. Rains were delaying thrashing, but weather was clearing in the Dakotas. Minneapolis stocks increased 50,000 bu for two days. At the southwest markets receipts were only 382,000 bu, compared with 658,000 bu last year, and all the primary markets had 1,708,000 bu, against 1,686,000 bu last year.

Cash prices in the southwest were about the same as Saturday, but in the local market demand was slow, with low grades relatively easy. World's shipments were 12,000 bu, against 10,088,000 bu the week before. Liverpool closed ½d higher, Berlin ¼, Paris ⅝@1c, and Budapest ¾c higher. Wheat on passage decreased 520,000 bu.

More Liquidation in Oats.

Oats prices had a further decline under renewed profit taking. At low point at 28¾c December, 30½c May, prices were ¾c off from the best point on the advance late last week. At this level there was indication of good buying and some recovery in prices until the late weakness in corn caused a reaction. There was an increase of 616,000 bu in local stocks and 2,037,000 bu in the visible supply. Cash sales were 357,000 bu. New York reported 170,000 bu sold for export. Export clearances were 336,000 bu. New York exporters had reports of poor condition of the Russian oats crop. A New York house claims that a large percentage of the export business reported of late was chiefly in the way of consignments to the other side. Peavey, Pringle, Wagner, Kneeland, Bowman, and Buckley were free sellers. Bartlett-Frazier again bought May. Sterling buying was credited to Cummings.

Provisions Work Higher.

There was a higher range of prices for provisions. The market was given open support by the packers during the morning. The best prices were made during the first hour, when pork was 15c to 20c higher, lard 10c to 12½c higher, and ribs 5c to 12½c higher. Pork and lard held most of the advance, while ribs finished at the close. Shipments of meats and lard were less than a year ago. The west had a run of 47,000 hogs, compared with 35,000 the same day last year. This market had 30,000 hogs and the estimate for today is 30,000.

Rye Rules Stronger.

There was a better trade in rye, and prices, after opening easy, were advanced 1@2c. December sold at 67c early, and rose to 69c, with a trade at the close at 69c. December sold from 65c to 65½c. No. 2 carlots 67@68c, No. 3 63@66c, and No. 4 ... c. o. b. Receipts were 14 cars.

Barley was in better supply, but a good demand held price steady. Malting sales were at 38@48c, with fancy quoted at 50c; feed was 35@37c, and screenings 24@29c. Receipts were 120 cars. Local export sales were 120,000 bu.

Flaxseed was 3@3½c lower, in line with the northwest markets. No. 1 northwestern sold 96½c, and No. 1 93c. Receipts were 10 cars here, 108 at Minneapolis, and 19 at Duluth.

Timothy seed ruled 10c lower, at $3.40 for October and $3.30 for March. Country lots ranged from $2.50 to $3.15. October clover seed was strong, at $11.75@12.00, and bag lots sold sparingly from $10.00 to $11.50.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Corn traders at the close of the session were much in doubt whether the September deal was over or whether the selling by the Patten house was for the purpose of shaking out tailers or to create a short interest to make the market respond more readily to the boosting of prices supposed to be scheduled for the last few days of the month. Developments after the close, however, pointed clearly to the conclusion that the deal was practically wound up yesterday. Private settlements with the leading short—A. J. Lichtstern—were reported, and this transaction outside of the pit is supposed to have eliminated the principal short, with the exception of the cash interests. It was said to have been settled at about 52c. Patten said yesterday afternoon that he did not like the way the market was acting, that he was disappointed in the export demand, and that receipts looked as if they would be large enough to allow the mixers to deliver more corn to him than he cared to take, and practically admitted that the deal had been abandoned, although he thought there might be higher prices in store for the trade even yet. Apparently it will take closer figuring to count the profits of the Patten interests than was necessary in their successful May corn deal. The bulk of the September line was taken on between 50c and 52c and some up to 54c. A good deal of cash corn has been delivered this month, the total close to 2,000,000 bu, and a good part of it all has been merchandised already, as Patten bought up a good deal of ocean freight room before the recent advance in rates, which has given him the advantage over others in making sales. On the rise to top price reached since Sept. 1, at 54½c, some corn apparently was marketed in the pit, and in more recent sessions the needs of shorts have been readily supplied, a move which most traders thought was to keep the price down, so as not to attract corn to this market before the bulls were ready to boost the market and reap the harvest of shorts. At times sales by Pringle-Fitch-Rankin and others were thought to be for the leader, but traders could see no clear evidence of this. Patten's line was estimated to be about 8,000,000 bu before cut down. The high point reached since July 1 came on July 7, when it sold at 57c, off to 51½c, up to 55¾c on Aug. 3, and since then has held between 52c and 54c most of the time.

The local cash wheat market was irregular, with demand from elevators slow early and local mills out of the market, but late in the day one of the mills absorbed the offerings of hard and spring wheat, about 25,000 bu. No shipping sales were reported. Cash premiums were steady to 3c lower, with low grades off the most. Minneapolis reported a good demand early, but later the edge was off, and prices closed at inside figures. The small receipts at Kansas City and St. Louis met a fairly good demand. On the break in corn and oats a good shipping demand developed. Eastern buyers took 750,000 bu corn, including sales for direct export of 300,000 bu. Car lots sold at a decline of ¼@1¼c. Sales of oats totaled 357,000 bu, including a cargo of 100,000 bu standard late on Saturday, and 150,000 bu for export. Sales of barley were 120,000 bu, all for export. The seaboard reported export sales of 180,000 bu wheat, 80,000 bu corn, 170,000 bu oats, and 100,000 bu barley. Minneapolis reported oats firm, with the American Cereal interests buying.

The visible supply figures offered slight encouragement to bulls and less to the bears, total stocks showing an increase of 719,000 bu, with 304,000 bu of it on the lakes and 43,000 bu on canals, compared with a total loss of 895,000 bu last year. Of the principal increases 403,000 bu was at Galveston, 305,000 bu at Duluth, 281,000 bu at Minneapolis, and only 40,000 bu at Chicago. Canadian points lost 448,000 bu, and ten American points showed small decreases. Corn increased 861,000 bu, against 951,000 bu last year. Increases were: Chicago, 370,000 bu; Toledo, 117,000 bu; canals, 292,000 bu; the rest mainly at seaboard points. Oats increased 2,037,000 bu, against 3,347,000 bu last year, local stocks gaining 616,000 bu. Rye increased 15,000 bu, and barley 575,000 bu. Totals follow:

LOCAL STOCKS GO HIGHER.

MODERATE VOLUME OF TRADING ADVANCES SEVERAL ISSUES.

Annual Statement of Northwestern Elevated Railway Shows Increase in Surplus—Atchison Shows Earnings Equal to 5 Per Cent on Preferred and 5.92 on Common—Carnegie Steel Company to Build New Furnace and Mill at Homestead.

Higher prices ruled in the Chicago stock market yesterday, only a few declines being made in the list. The amount of trade was not large and it was confined principally to stocks that have been much exploited recently in the market gossip.

Shipbuilding common was the most active issue. It opened a point and a quarter over Saturday's close and finished with practically all the advance. Illinois Brick was carried up 2 points on the purchase of less than 400 shares. The company's earnings are reported to be much in excess of the present dividend requirements. Title and Trust, Biscuit preferred, Canal and Dock, the Quaker Oats issues and Swift all moved up a point on moderate buying. Metropolitan Elevated preferred was bought up to 70½ and Northwestern made a fractional gain on an unimportant amount of trade. The buying in Metropolitan is said to be prompted by the belief that dividends will be resumed in the near future on the preferred stock. Nothing in that direction was done at the directors' meeting yesterday.

Diamond Match was sold in numerous small lots and made a fractional decline. K

THE HISTORY OF CHAMPAGNE—No. 2.

EARLY VINTAGERS of the Champagne district of France noticed the tendency of their wines to effervesce. It remained for Dom Perignon, a Monk of St Peter's Abbey, Hautvillers, to discover, about 1670, how to control this effervescence, to preserve the quality as desired, until he obtained the rarest, most delicate of all wines, Champagne.

The fame of French Champagnes, plus $8.00 duty, doubling the price, makes some people think them worth more than

Great Western

Extra Dry

In reply, we only ask that you try Great Western. Great Western Champagne actually has the fine flavor and rare boquet found in French Champagnes. This is due to the long cultivation of Great Western Vineyards—the oldest in New York State. These soils have actually attained the chemical condition which imparts that quality hitherto found only in foreign goods.

Try Great Western—equal to foreign Champagnes, at half the price.
